JOHNSON CALLED 'GRANDSTANDER'

AEC Cleared By 9 To 6 Vote Of Committee

"Whitewash," Says Hickenlooper, Who Plans Own Report

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee today rejected by a 9 to 6 vote a charge that the Atomic Energy Commission had been the subject of "incredible mismanagement."

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) immediately called the committee's report "a cleverly written 'white wash'." He announced he will file a minority report, and several Republican members indicated they would join him.

It was Hickenlooper who levelled the mismanagement charge last spring at AEC Commissioner David E. Lilienthal and other members of the commission.

Republicans Oppose Report

Nine Democratic members of the Senate-House "watchdog" committee voted in favor of the report absolving the commission. Six Republican members voted against it. The committee has 18 members, but many of them were away from the capital.

The committee held extended hearings during the summer on Hickenlooper's charges. He sought to prove laxity in security precautions, and waste and extravagance in administration of the multi-billion dollar program.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the joint committee, said the report declared that Hickenlooper's charge "could not be proved."

Original Report Revised

That phase was in the original draft of the report which McMahon circulated among committee members two weeks ago. Since then, it has been revised, but McMahon said most of the changes were "of a minor character, mainly in language," rather than in substance.

McMahon said the only copy of the revised report had been sent to the printers and that copies would not be available for a day or so.

Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), member of the committee, agreed with McMahon that the changes made in the original draft were minor. However, Millikin said that he will join with Hickenlooper and the other Republicans in a minority report, or file one of his own. On the basis of evidence taken, he said, "there is room for criticism" of the commission, but he declined to elaborate.

Elderly Romeo Tussles With Attorney

Sigmund "Sam" Engel, 73-year-old wooer of well-to-do widows who frequently eloped with their fortunes but not with them, tussels with his attorney, J. Edward Jones (left) outside Federal court in Chicago after Engel was freed yesterday on $100 cash bond. The fracas started when Engel and his bondsmen, who also posted a $37,500 real estate bond, argued about having a guard posted on Engel to guarantee his appearing at a hearing Nov. 1. (Story at bottom of page)

Committee Votes To Free DP Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The displaced persons bill finally got out of the Senate Judiciary Committee today, and may come up for a Senate vote this week.

The committee voted 7 to 3 to release the measure, but refused either to endorse or oppose it.

Sen. Lucas D-Ill), the majority leader in the Senate, previously had said that as soon as debate on the farm program was completed, the Senate would take up the DP bill.

But if the bill's past stormy history is an indicator, it probably will run into stiff opposition on the Senate floor. For this bill—which would permit more of Europe's homeless to come into this country—has set Democrat against Democrat and Republican against Republican.

In the last campaign, President Truman asked for what he called a more liberal displaced persons law.

The Republican presidential nominee, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, also said the law should be changed.

Minton Sworn In

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Sherman Minton, a former Democratic New Deal senator from Indiana, today was sworn in as a justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Acheson Brands E. German State Soviet "Puppet"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today branded the newly-created East German state an undemocratic puppet of "Soviet masters." He then gave a fresh pledge of full United States support for the Bonn government of Western Germany. As for reports that Russia may now proclaim peace with Germany and withdraw Red army troops, Acheson said such "high-sounding talk" is mere propaganda as long as a "large militarized Communist police force" carries out Soviet policies in East Germany.

"The United States government and the governments associated with it," Acheson said in a formal statement, "will not in any way be deceived or diverted from their course of action by the events which have taken place at Berlin, and will continue to give full support to the government of the German federal republic at Bonn in its efforts to restore a truly free and democratic Germany."

Acheson gave this emphatic statement of the West's attitude toward the Berlin regime at his first news conference in nearly a month.

He also:

1. Assailed the current wave of arrests in Czechoslovakia as a new example of terroristic tactics designed to suppress any dissent to the Communist Czech regime.

2. Rejected outright a protest by four Soviet bloc countries—Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, and Romania—against the western backing of the Bonn republic. Acheson said the protests were made solely to reinforce a similar protest by Moscow.

Hospital Aid Bill OK'd

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Congress today completed action on an administration bill to provide $150,000,000 annually in federal aid to states for hospital construction. That is double the present yearly grant.

Ex-UNFAO Head Wins 1949 Nobel Prize For Peace

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 12 (AP)—Lord Orr, president of a movement for world federal government and former head of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, is the Nobel peace prize winner of 1949.

The Norwegian Parliament's Nobel Committee announced its award today to the patient, craggy-faced, 69-year-old Scotsman who has long campaigned for "a world food policy based on the needs of the people rather than on trade interests."

The prize amounts to 156,289-.82 Norwegian kroner ($21,889-.30).

Senate Refuses To Expand USAF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — The congressional deadlock over funds for the Air Force continued tonight as the Senate refused to provide an additional $741,000,000 to expand the Air Force during the next year.

By a voice vote that sounded unanimous, Sen. Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) won Senate insistence upon providing funds only for the 48-group combat air force asked by President Truman.

Previously the House had insisted upon the extra millions to build the air power up to 58 groups.

At a White House conference with members of the Senate appropriations committee earlier today, Mr. Truman repeated his opposition to the 58-group plan.

But senators said Mr. Truman seemed to string along with the House on a second issue that has held up the huge military appropriations bill.

They told reporters that Mr. Truman said he would accept the House proposal on funds for stockpiling strategic war materials.

The Senate wants to cut the House figure by $271,000,000.

Oilman Is Target Of Extortion Plot

HOUSTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — A former deputy sheriff was accused today of writing a threatening letter attempting to extort $50,000 from wealthy oilman Glenn McCarthy.

Raymond Chambers, 43, pleaded innocent to the charge when arraigned before United States Commissioner W. F. Carothers. He was released under $7,500 bond.

Chambers was a Harris County deputy sheriff four years, office records show. More recently he was a janitor at the multi-millionaire McCarthy's swank Shamrock Hotel.

An examining trial was set for 10 a.m. (CST) Wednesday. FBI agents said much of their evidence would have to be brought here from Washington.

Security Police Force Czechs To Give Up Firearms

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 12. (AP)—A police roundup of private firearms started tonight in Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia, the scene of thousands of arrests in the last 10 days.

Communists as well as non-Communists were reported required to surrender their pistols and hunting weapons. Even air rifles were taken from non-Communists.

Coincident with the police campaigns, Communist pressure developed against the United States Information Service in Prague. The United States Embassy protested vainly.

Arrests continued, though on a diminishing scale.

Store Owners Missing

Prague citizens who went shopping found the old owners of some stores gone and Communist-controlled national administrators in charge. This strengthened reports that the roundup was aimed chiefly at wiping out what is left of the small business and middle class here.

Reliable sources said that arrests in the provinces outside the capital were aimed at picking up Czechs suspected of membership in an underground organization. The next step, these sources said, is to connect this underground with the Roman Catholic Church and then stage trials.

These sources said many of those picked up by police were being sent to labor camps for two-year terms, but can be released after six months at the discretion of government authorities.

Police "Looking Ahead"

They are being seized under a law authorizing imprisonment of so-called "non-workers."

The security police are making spot inspections in Prague restaurants and coffee houses. Patrols jot down the names of anyone lacking identification cards and work papers, apparently or use in future roundups.

Prague citizens lined up at police stations with their weapons in response to a summons to report for revision of firearms licenses. At the stations, however, they said they learned the revision meant revocation and they had to leave their guns.

Rescuers Reach First Of Snowbound Hunters

MISSOULA, Mont., Oct. 12 (AP)—Rescue workers reached the first of about 100 snowbound big game hunters in a rugged Idaho wilderness area 100 miles west of here today.

"It looks like the emergency is over," said Lolo National Forest Supervisor E. H. Myrick, director of rescue operations. "We expect to have the road open so the rest of those hunters can get out late today."

Engel Enlivens His Release By Taking Sock At Attorney

CHICAGO, Oct. 12. (INS)—Sigmund (Sam) Engel, the elderly Lothario accused of bilking gullible women out of a fortune in cash and jewels, enlivened his departure from the toils of the law today by taking a sock at his attorney.

The attorney, J. Edward Jones, and three bodyguards he had hired to keep an around-the-clock watch on the 74-year-old Romeo, were waiting to take Engel in tow after he posted a $100 bond and was finally released from jail after languishing there since last June.

The love-em-and-leave-em expert would have none of that—thank you. They asked the aged heart throb to sign a contract placing him in their technical custody, since they had put up most of the bond and wanted to take no chances on his skipping town.

Engel refused, shouting:

"take me back to the county jail. Lock me there. I will sign no contract. I want no bodyguard."

Earlier, Federal Judge Elywn R. Shaw swung the jail door open for wooing Sam by ordering his bond on a charge of transporting stolen money across a state line reduced from a staggering $10,000 to $100.

Sliding Scale Of Farm Price Props Approved By Senate

UMW Spurns Bid To Renew Pact 2 Years

Murray Asks Public To Back Steel Union

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12 (AP) — The striking United Mine Workers refused an offer today to renew their contract for two years.

Government prodding brought the operators and union together.

President John L. Lewis did not attend. He's expected at resumption of the talks tomorrow in White Sulphur Springs and Charleston, W. Va.

Continuance of the coal talks was the only hopeful sign in America's darkening economic picture.

There's no hint of peace in the steel strike.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO United Steelworkers, made a nationwide radio broadcast — appealing to the public to back his demands for free pensions and insurance.

"Best And Final Offer"

The offer to renew John L. Lewis' contract for two more years came from northern and western soft coal operators.

Frank Amos, of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, said renewal of the old agreement until April, 1951, was the operators' "best and final offer."

Amos added the operators want "unrestricted use of our facilities."

That simply means the operators insist Lewis discard the contract clause saying miners work only when willing and able.

The UMW hasn't specified its exact demands. But Lewis has let it be known he wants an increase in the 20-cent-a-ton payments to his welfare and pension fund.

Lewis also has talked about a shorter work week with no reduction of pay.

Pensions Major Issue

The miners' walkout has idled 380,000 soft coal diggers east of the Mississippi. They quit after their pension and welfare payments were shut off.

The steel strike which has idled about 450,000 men resulted after Big Steel refushed to pay the entire cost of a pension and insurance program. The United States Steel Corporation offered to pay 10 cents an hour — but only if workers would contribute, too.

The twin strikes have resulted in layoffs to 55,000 in allied industries.

Truman Signs Bill Hiking Military Pay

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—A pay raise for most of the nation's fighting men—ranging from about $5 a month for recruits to a little more than $300 for generals with 30 years' service—was signed into law today by President Truman.

Congress recently passed the bill, granting the bigger raises to high officers because they have not had a general increase in 40 years. Lower ranks have had boosts in recent years.

At the lowest end of the military scale, a buck private's starting pay of $75 a month will remain unchanged, but the bill provides a $5 automatic increase for him at the end of five months' service.

"Five Percent" Probe Dropped By Senators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Senate's "five percenter" inquiry is off at least until January, but one of the men it investigated is going out of business.

Sen. Hoey (D-NC), who headed the Senate subcommittee which conducted the probe, made the announcement after a closed-door committee session.

He said James V. Hunt, Washington, "management counselor," is closing his business Saturday on the advice of his physician. Hunt gave illness as the reason he could not appear before the committee and give testimony.

Reports of Hunt's activities in and around official Washington set off the Senate inquiry last summer.

Communist Leaders End Their Defense

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—America's 11 top Communist leaders ended their defense today and the government at once began its final plea to the jury in the 39-week-old conspiracy trial.

The eight women and four men on the jury were expected to get the case from Federal Judge Harold R. Medina no later than Friday.

Both sides pulled out all the stops in their final efforts to sway the jury. At stake in the verdict is the future of the Communist Party in this country.

Measure Sharply At Odds With Bill Adopted By House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Senate today passed a farm price support bill incorporating a sliding scale of price props which President Truman is reported to oppose.

The measure which the Senate finally approved after lengthy debate also is sharply at odds with a rival bill passed months ago by the House.

The Senate bill, sponsored by Sen. Clinton Anderson (D-NM), former Secretary of Agriculture, provides for supporting major crops next year at 90 per cent of parity but only if they are under production or marketing controls. After 1950, the support level could range down to 75 per cent at the discretion of the Secretary of Agriculture.

House Wants 90% Supports

The House bill, on the other hand, calls for continuation through 1950 of the 90 per cent of parity support, which prevailed throughout the war.

The parity concept has been the basis of federal farm legislation for many years. Parity is a price calculated to give farmers a fair return for the things they raise, in terms of what they have to buy.

The Senate bill revises that formula to take account of the cost of hired hands. The result is to give slightly higher price levels for farm products that require a lot of hand labor—meat, milk, tobacco and so on—and somewhat lower levels for corn, wheat, cotton and other row crops.

The Senate passed its bill by a voice vote.

Quick Compromise Unlikely

The next step is for the Senate and House to try to iron out the differences in their bills. These are so basic, however, that no quick compromise was in sight.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC), of the House Agriculture Committee, predicted that the House conferees will insist upon full 90 per cent support of basis crops, with the possible exception of corn, where farmers agree to acreage allotments and marketing quotas.

Cooley said that if Sen. Anderson and Senate Demorcratic Leader Lucas want lower supports on corn he is willing to let them write their own ticket on that crop. Lucas is from Illinois, which raises a good deal of the nation's corn and buys a lot more, principally to feed to livestock.

Extortion Racket Suspect Nabbed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (AP)—Officers watched hotel hangouts today for the second of two Hollywood girls charged by the grand jury with running a prostitute extortion racket.

One of the girls, Toni Hughes, 29, was arrested in New York City and held there as a fugitive under $5,000 bond pending a hearing October 19.

The name of the second defendant was not officially disclosed because the indictment was secret but she is expected to be apprehended her shortly. The charges are extortion, attempted extortion and conspiracy.

Dist. Atty. William E. Simpson said during the investigation that at least one wire recording figured in the evidence. He said it was a recording obtained by party girls during their entertainment of a businessman friend and subsequently used as a threat.

A wealthy radio correspondence school head, Ben M. Klekner, assumed the role of principal complaining witness in the case. The district attorney's office is investigating charges that an extortion ring obtained thousands of dollars from businessmen by threatening disclosure of party peccadilloes.

Reds Move To Trap Canton's Defenders

HONG KONG, Thursday, Oct. 13 (AP) — Chinese Communist armies today struck to trap doomed Canton's Nationalist garrison of 80,000 men.

Red. Gen. Cheng Keng sent his swift-moving columns racing to cut off the garrison's overland escape corridor extending east and west of the Nationalist capital.

The Nationalist forces had the Pearl river to their backs — and not enough shipping to take them all to the safety of the open sea.

Red troops thrusting down the broad highway from Tsungfa, 35 miles to the northeast, seemed the most likely to enter Canton first.

Another powerful Red column has bypassed Tsingyun, 40 miles northwest of the city, and crossed North River. It is steadily narrowing the western escape route into Kwangsi Province.

NOMINATED — Mrs. Eugenie Anderson (above), Democratic National Committeewoman from Red Wing, Minn., was nominated yesterday by President Truman as ambassador to Denmark. She would be the first woman to hold that rank in the diplomatic service.

Senate Rebuffs Truman, Refuses To Confirm Olds

Nomination Turned Down By 53-16 Vote

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (Thursday) (AP) — The Senate early today swept aside the wishes of President Truman and refused to confirm Leland Olds for a third term as a member of the federal power commission.

The roll-call vote was 53 to 15.

After a night of heated wrangling, the Senate rejected the nomination for which Mr. Truman had fought with a personal appeal and the power of the Democratic National Committee.

It was the third time this year that the Senate, which has a Democratic majority, had rebuffed the President on an appointment.

The showdown on Olds came shortly after midnight. It climaxed a debate in which Olds, first appointed to the commission in 1939 by the late President Roosevelt, was sharply assailed and vigorously defended.

Called Foe Of Capitalism

His opponents contended that he is a foe of capitalism and that in articles he wrote 20-odd years ago he helped to promote Communism and "sowed the seeds of revolution."

But senators supporting his nomination replied that gas and oil interests were behind the fight on Olds. They pictured him as a devoted public servant trying to protect consumers by effective utility regulation.

Earlier, a Senate committee bottled up Mr. Truman's nomination of his close friend, former Gov. Mon Wallgren, of Washington, to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board. The President finally withdrew it. Sen. Byrd (D-Aa) voted with the Armed Services Committee Republicans to hold up Wallgren's nomination.

The agreement for the Olds vote after midnight was reached by unanimous consent earlier in the night.

Admitted Writings Radical

Democratic Leader Lucas, of Illinois, first suggested a vote at 10:30 p. m. (EST) but Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) said that three or four senators wanted "to present the case for Mr. Olds." He suggested the post-midnight vote.

A howl of protest went up at first and Sen. Donnell (R-Mo) objected. Later he withdrew the objection.

Olds himself, in testifying about his writings for the Federated Press in the 20's, admitted they were radical but said he was trying to shock the people into bringing about reforms in the economic system. He denied he is or ever has been a Communist.

Vinson Terms Defense Chief "Bureaucrat"

Bypassed Congress; Admirals Lambast "Cut-Navy" Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson's "cut the Navy" policy underwent a mounting barrage from famous-name admirals today and a key congressman accused Johnson of making "grandstand" economy plays.

The heat on Johnson increased terrifically as:

1. Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey called for completion of the huge, $189,000,000 aircraft carrier United States, cancelled by Johnson. The hero of the Pacific lambasted the Air Force's B-36 atom bomber before the House Armed Services Committee. He said it was fit only for "seige" bombing operations against cities and industries—and he said a seige never yet won a war against an enemy with an army in the field.

B-36 "Over-Emphasized"

2. Ailing Adm. Ernest J. King, top man of the Navy in World War II, sent the committee a statement that "we have been over-emphasizing the atom bomb and the bomber that was planned to deliver it." He said that "any war plans—or peace plans — which deprive the Navy of its combatant strength will become the plans for our own defeat."

3. Adm. Richard L. Conolly, commander in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean. testified that if war should come he would need more navel strength than the entire Navy now has. His responsibilities are increasing but his tools are decreasing, he said.

4. Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, protested a "Maginot Line mentality" which, he said, might be "fatal" to the country's efforts to prevent destruction of civilization.

Vinson Cuts Loose

Then Rep. Vinson (D-Ga), the chairman of the House committee, cut loose at Johnson. Noting that the Defense Secretary had ordered a $800,000,000 cut in Navy, Army and Air Force spending for 1950, Vinson said this was done without consulting Congress and before the 1950 appropriation bill has even been passed.

Calling this a "grandstand play," Vinson said:

"When a bill is pending before Congress and further review of funds is justified, then he should come before Congress."

"Bureaucrats," Vinson said, are not playing fair with Congress when they go about "making a record" as economyites without consulting the legislators.

Johnson, however, hinted that President Truman is supporting his defense policies.

A reporter asked Johnson today if he had received assurance that the President is backing him up.

"If he wasn't I wouldn't be holding down this job," Johnson said.

U. S. Works To Scuttle Two Soviet Projects

LAGE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP)—The United States campaigned behind the scenes in the United Nations Assembly tonight to kill off the Soviet peace pact plan and the new Russian demand for a count of atom bombs. The Americans say both propects are meant only to fool people.

The United States insisted in private talks with delegations and in public comments that a showup of atomic bombs without full verification would be meaningless.

United Nations diplomatic sources said the major objective of the American drives is to expose the Russian peace pact plan as a fraud.

Defense Plan Due Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Department of State advised senators today that plans for the defense of the North Atlantic area will be handed to President Truman within the next 60 days.

Actor Kirk Douglas Quizzed In Case Of Missing Brunette

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (AP)—Movie Actor Kirk Douglas, questioned by police today about the disappearance of Jean Spangler, gay film extra, said "I wish I could help, but I didn't even know the girl by name."

Police have been trying to learn who Miss Spangler, 27-year-old brunette beauty, knew by the name of "Kirk." The name was on a note in her purse found in Griffith Park Sunday, 36 hours after she dropped from sight.

"I told Detective Chief Thad Brown that I didn't remember the girl or the name until a friend recalled it was she who worked as an extra in a scene with me in my picture 'Young Man With A Horn,'" Douglas said.

"Then I recalled that she was a tall girl in a green dress and that I talked and kidded with her a bit on the set, as I have done with many other people around on a day of shooting.

"But I never saw her before or after that and have never been out with her."

Chief Brown said he questioned Douglas by telephone and was satisfied with his explanation of his acquaintance with Miss Spangler. The actor's attorney, Jerry Rosenthal, gave reporters a similar resume of the circumstances.

Bradley Admits "Red Atom Day" Upset Estimates

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley admittted tonight the Russian atomic explosion occurred sooner than his military high command expected but he asserted that defense plans "are well under way."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said that what he termed "Red Atom Day" makes it necessary that the United States review its rate of military expenditure and "choose carefully the further armaments of defense."

Departing from the customary diplomatic reference only to "an aggressor nation," usually used by American military leaders in public addresses, Bradley spoke of the Russians by name and speculated on their intentions.

Estimates by the Joint Chiefs of Staff on when the Russians would have the atomic bomb ranged from 1950 to 1952, Bradley said, but "their 'atomic explosion' preceded the earliest of these estimates by several months."

In an address prepared for the American Forestry Association, Bradley also said his staff had made estimates of the time when Russia could have enough atomic bombs "to influence the outcome of a modern war." But he did not disclose that estimate.

They he said of the Russians:

"They could be foolhardy enough to launch an atomic attack with only a handful of atomic bombs. But of all the people of the earth, they are students of force and of power in war, and should understand clearly the disastrous result of such a gruesome error.

"In the meantime, I earnestly hope that they will see the difficulty and tremendous expense of atomic manufacture, and shall come forward to join us in international control of such a weapon.

"But military men must be realists. You depend on them to be prepared. We have worked out an orderly timetable of preparations for atomic defense. Like a plan for mobilization in case of attack, it was tied to a day in the future on which a specific event should came to pass. That day has now arrived—Red Atom Day—and our program to provide for defense in this second phase is already well underway."

(The first phase, he had explained, was the period in which only the United States possessed the bomb.)

Bradley reiterated the thought that the United States must be prepared to "retaliate quickly and hard" if an aggressor attacks.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Back in 1910, we worked for an editor whose standing headline was, "Trouble In the Balkans." He said that line was inherited from his grandpappy.

• — • — •

There's always creaks in an old house and trouble in the Balkans. Just like the Blue Ridge where the Hatfields fought because the McCoys' mountain was bigger than theirs.

• — • — •

If Mr. Stalin starts roaming loose through those Balkans they're liable to put his hair up in a tight bun. They do an awful lot of shooting out of season over there.

P. S. Even if Stalin has the atomic bomb he doesn't want to fool around with people who put rocks in their snow-balls.

Ford's Drug Stores

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

But Curly "Knows What The Score Is!"

Was over at Doc Sherman's drug store listening to the World Series on the radio. Curly Lawson wanders in and says: "How about a chocolate malted, Doc?"

"Sorry, Curly," says Doc, "can't make you a malted for a while yet." "What's the idea?" Curly asks. "Well," says Doc, "most of the folks want to hear the game and the mixer makes too much noise." Curly thinks a moment and says, "Okay with me, Doc—I'll take a chocolate soda!"

This shows how tolerant folks can be. Doc showed his respect for how the majority felt; Curly was big enough not to insist on his malted even though he doesn't happen to be fond of baseball.

From where I sit, willingness to respect the other people's feelings is important in a Democracy. If we're tolerant of a person's like for baseball or a glass of temperate beer, we've come a long way on the right road . . . the road to a better America, that is!

Senate Striving To Arrest An Avalanche

Although it had a hard time competing for public interest with the World Series, the Senate vote against mandatory 90 per cent parity price supports for farm crops may mean a saving of two billion dollars to American consumers and taxpayers providing, of course, the Senate enacts, and President Truman signs, the measure now before the upper House. By the decisive vote of 45 to 26, the Senate reversed its earlier one-vote decision favoring a flat 90 per cent parity support.

No thanks are due the Administration for this salutary action. Vice President Barkley, to reiterate, broke a tie to put over the decision in favor of a flat 90 per cent support. When that decision was reversed, Secretary Brannan made the irresponsible remark that the extra cost of 90 per cent support over a flexible program would be "relatively small."

In recent years the whole concept of crop loans has been changed. Before the war, loans were approved, at rates from 52 to 75 per cent of parity, not to support farm prices but to assure orderly marketing. By borrowing from Uncle Sam on his crops the farmer could avoid dumping his products on a temporarily glutted market. But the easy government money has been so plentiful that farmers now produce not for the market but for government loans. During the war the loans steadily mounted until they reached a flat 90 per cent plateau.

That was supposed to be an emergency measure. The war has now been over four years, yet the "wartime" measure remains. Last year crop loans and purchases cost the Treasury $3,000,000,000. Even more serious, 90 per cent parity has caused tremendous overproduction, with mountains of flood reserves in government stores. The country is being drowned under wheat, crushed under potatoes and peanuts, stifled by cotton, suffocated by dried eggs.

By voting its approval of the principle of flexible price support, the Senate is trying to arrest an avalanche.

Experts Try To Throw Light On Atomic Bomb

How much do Americans know about the atomic bomb? Do they know enough to understand its true military significance? Do they grasp what Russia's success in obtaining the secret actually means? Do they have enough information about this revolutionary weapon to judge whether the plans of the nation's defense strategists are wise?

These are questions that seem to be implicit in the statements attributed to Dr. R. E. Lapp, formerly executive director of the Interdepartmental Committee on Atomic Energy in the National Military Establishment, by interviews appearing in United States News and World Report. Some of Dr. Lapp's pronouncements seem so surprising, in fact, that many persons will find them hard to accept.

No layman will venture to challenge many of his views. His conclusion that Russia does have the bomb and can deliver it is based on expert knowledge. His belief that it will be two years before Russia has atomic bombs in quantity is at least an informed guess. But there are other assertions that will make some people wonder whether they can read plain type.

In the first interview, Dr. Lapp declares that the atomic bomb is a "useful weapon" but not a "decisive weapon." It couldn't be depended on for victory even when this country alone possessed it, he said. As for the dictum that there is no defense against the bomb, he says that is wrong, too.

The second interview makes the point that "increasing a bomb stockpile already large does not necessarily increase our security." Dr. Lapp also expresses the opinion, in discussing the possibility of using the bomb as a tactical weapon, that the Russians would not scatter their bombs.

He expresses little concern over the radioactive effects of the bomb. And he concludes by saying: "We need a powerful modern ground force backed up by strong tactical air power and welded together by a reenergized Navy."

All this would seem to jibe with the views expressed by Commander Eugene Tatom, naval air ordnance officer, who has told the House Armed Services Committee that the A-bomb is not as destructive as many people believe. Of course, Chairman Vinson questions Tatom's views. He finds it difficult to accept such a statement when it is recalled that one A-bomb killed hundreds of thousands of Japanese.

He and Dr. Lapp may have the right prescriptions for the nation's safety. But the American people will be unable to reach a judgment on that point until they know much more than they do now about the bomb.

"Grow Old Along With Me, Best Is Yet To Be"

If all the pension drives by the big unions now under way should be successful, many workers would be drawing more money after retirement than they receive for working.

Coal miners have a $100 a month pension program under a contract signed by the government after it had seized the mines following a strike, and are pressing for more. Some unions want a $150 pension and if they get this will no doubt want a sizeable increase each year.

To these amounts would be added the federal social security retirement pension which is aimed at much higher levels than those currently in force. Workers who are war veterans would also be beneficiaries of any pension plan Congress passes in their behalf.

Under pending plans the miner could draw at sixty-five $271 a month, the steelworker $241 a month and the motorcar worker $221 a month. These allurements should make old age something to look forward to.

Browning said: "Grow old along with me, the best is yet to be." But perhaps if these pension plans are put into effect, and unions tie up the economy each year by strikes to win increased benefits at lower age limits, in a decade it may be possible to retire on a pension of a thousand dollars a month or thereabouts at age of 30.

Toys featuring atomic bombs will not be on the market for next Christmas, but Junior should not be discouraged. There will always be another Santa Claus.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Famous Dr. Osler

THIS year marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Osler and practically all of our medical journals are paying tribute to this remarkable man by featuring editorials and stories about his work. Physicians know him well and, although his name may be unfamiliar in nonmedical circles, it is generally agreed that he was the world's best doctor.

Osler never discovered a cure for a disease; nor did he devise life saving operations or diagnostic tests. In this respect he cannot be compared to Fleming who discovered penicillin, or Banting and Best who produced insulin. Osler became famous as a teacher of young medical students and interns. This may not sound like an important contribution but it had a favorable effect upon mankind. He left in his wake better trained physicians who in turn were highly qualified to practice medicine. His teaching methods are now used in medical schools throughout the world; and his textbook, "The Principles and Practice of Medicine," has gone into the 16th edition and has been translated into many languages. In all probability, Osler is responsible for adding a few years to the life of each and every one of us.

• — • — •

During his lifetime, this eminent physician was head of the department of medicine of four medical schools. He began at his alma mater, The McGill medical school in Montreal, where his ability was recognized early in his career. At the age of 35 he became professor of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania and, five years later, accepted the challenge to head the same department of the newly formed Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore, Maryland. Much of the reputation of this institution stems from his work there. His final move came after passing his 58th birthday. He assumed the Regius professorship of medicine at Oxford university in England, where he was knighted. Thereafter, he was known as Sir William Osler.

This famous physician was a prolific and scholarly writer. His philosophy of life was simple in that he had acquired "the practice of living for the day only, and for the day's work." He preferred to call it "life in day-tight compartments." By shutting out the past and the future, he felt that he was safe for the day. In this way he freed his mind of "worries, dreams, visions, and delicious fantasies." He believed that any one could acquire this manner of thinking by "long and steady repetition." Furthermore, such a philosophy would be as helpful to the laborer as to the bank president or lawyer. His intellectual processes were stimulated by Carlyle's famous words "Our main business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance but to do what lies clearly at hand."

• — • — •

Osler also advocated equanimity to enable us to "rise superior to the trials of life." His writings contained many statements which are now used as precepts for students and physicians. "Do not waste the hours of daylight in listening to what you may read at night." "Soap and water and common senses are the best disinfectants." "There are only two sorts of doctors—those who practice with their brains, and those who practice with their tongues." These are but a few of the many sayings that he popularized.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses different types of stiff neck.

ENLARGED GLANDS

I. T. writes: What would cause the glands immediately below the ears to be enlarged in a 6 year old child? She does not have mumps.

Reply

The glands involved in mumps are in front of the ears (parotid) and below the jaw (submaxillary). Glands beneath the ear are lymph glands and generally enlarge in infection of the throat, tonsils, or nose or when a tooth becomes abscessed.

FAVORS ONIONS

M. J. G. writes: If onions are such a wonderful food, nature's own purifier, why do they not appear more often on restaurant and hotel menus?

Reply

Who said they are "nature's own purifier?" They do appear frequently on bills-of-fare because they taste good; but patrons often reject them because of the aftereffects.

UNLIKELY CAUSE

J. A. writes: Could sinus trouble cause frequent nosebleeds?

Reply

Yes, but sinus disease is not a common cause of bleeding from the nose.

DELUSIONS

V. writes: What are the acute manifestations of paranoia?

Reply

This form of insanity develops gradually and often escapes detection until well advanced. The personality changes are most noticeable as the individual slips into the realm of unreality. Most victims eat and sleep poorly and appear anxious and suspicious for no apparent reason. Ultimately, the persecution complex becomes evident. The afflicted person feels he is being watched or followed by imaginary enemies who are trying to do him harm.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senate Leader Lucas Blasts Vice President Barkley; Admiral Denfield Is Unhappiest Man In Navy; Navy Has Put Itself Ahead of Commander-in-Chief

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—It has been kept out of the paper, but sparks have been flying between two of President Truman's most potent Congressional leaders—Vice President Barkley and Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois.

Things came to a head when the Vice President, called upon to settle a tie, voted for rigid 90 per cent support of parity farm prices which the Administration opposed. Senator Lucas, faced with defeat, lashed out at Barkley privately in language unprintable in a family newspaper.

"What does Barkley know about farming!" stormed the Democratic Senate leader. "He has a few tobacco farms down in Kentucky, but he knows nothing about the agricultural problems of the great west."

Lucas, whose nerves are frazzled after the long and thankless job of riding herd on rebellious senators, further accused Barkley of torpedoing the farm program and embarrassing him personally.

"Who ever heard of anyone explaining his vote?" scorched Lucas, referring to the fact that the Vice President, in breaking the tie, had explained that he had campaigned for parity price support. "It's unheard of in the Senate."

Barkley was not present during this tirade, which was meant for private ears. But word of it got back to him and it won't help relations between the two men who are supposed to guide the Truman program through the Senate.

Unhappy Admiral

Unhappiest Admiral in the Navy today is probably Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, one of the squarest shooters ever to command a battle wagon.

Denfeld is right in the middle of the Navy-Air Force battle, a battle which he did not start. Now that it's started he is publicly siding with his brother Admirals. But before it started, he expressed the private view that the Navy could better use more money for submarines and smaller airplane carriers, rather than putting all its eggs in the giant experimental airplane carrier which has now become the war cry of the Admirals.

Since then, some Admirals have tried to cold-shoulder Denfeld. Accused him of transferring Adm. Radford out to the Pacific because he had been a contender for Denfeld's job—an accusation completely untrue.

Rows like the present flare-up are not unusual in the Navy, and the situation between Admirals Radford and Denfeld is not unlike a similar Navy fracas which harvested just as many headlines back in the Hoover Administration. It illustrates the unfortunate fact that the Admirals frequently put their judgment ahead of their commander-in-chief.

At that time, the Admirals, who always worship bigness, were bent on building a lot of 10,000-ton, 8-inch-gun cruisers, and refused to go along with Secretary of State Stimson on a treaty of limitation. Spearhead of the Navy attack against Stimson was salty Adm. Hilary Jones—the Admiral Radford of his day.

But siding with Stimson, and holding the same chief of naval operations job which Admiral Denfield occupies today, was Adm. William V. Pratt. Pratt believed that smaller cruisers with 6-inch guns could fire faster, and were more effective at close range or at night.

But because he held these views Pratt was almost ostracized from the Navy. For a time his fellow Admirals would not speak to him. And when he retired as chief of naval operations, almost no one was on hand to see him depart.

The Admirals Leak

As today, the Admirals arranged a series of "leaks," and threatened the resignation of Admiral Jones. As today also, various congressmen took up the cudgels and debated the pros and cons of the 8-inch-gun and 6-inch-gun cruiser—much to the delight of the Japanese and British navies.

Upshot of it all was that when five of the big 8-inch-gun cruisers came off the ways, they had cracked stern-posts—one of the most important parts of the ship, for on it hangs the rudder. Not only did the stern-posts have to be replaced at a cost of $150,000—paid by the taxpayer—but all the new cruisers rolled so badly it interfered with gunfire. This applied not only to the five cracked cruisers but to all of them. They had to be fitted with bilge keels and rolling tanks.

Battle of Graf Spee

But it was not until the battle of the Graf Spee that Admiral Pratt, whose latter years were made miserable by his fellow Admirals, was completely vindicated. In the famed battle off the river Plate, the British Navy with small, fast-moving 6-inch-gun cruisers was completely victorious over the 10,000-ton German cruiser carrying 8-inch guns.

What Admiral Pratt had argued in the face of almost every other Admiral about the speed and mobility of the small cruiser, was proved right.

And the fact that Pratt and Secretary Stimson forced the Navy into building some fast 6-inch-gun cruisers turned out to be the Navy's salvation when it came to patrolling the vast South Pacific during the recent war.

The Mysterious Maragon

Jack O'Brien, director of information for the Office of Housing Expediter, got a phone call some time ago from a man with a thick accent who said:

"This is Drew Pearson calling, and I want to know why Colonel James Hunt spends so much time around your office? If you're not careful I'm going to write a story about it. You'd better get rid of that fellow Hunt."

The alleged "Drew Pearson" referred to "five-percenter" James Hunt, the friend of General Harry Vaughan, and supposedly also the friend of the mysterious John Maragon.

However, Jack O'Brien, being reasonably familiar with the voice of this columnist, recognized the thick accent to be that of Maragon, himself. Posing as this columnist, Maragon was trying to scare the housing expediter's office away from Hunt in order to leave a clear field for himself.

Note—Maragon is now telling friends that he is engaged in a big diamond deal, says he is leaving the country shortly on a mission to buy diamonds.

Truman's Promises To Two Groups Remain Unfulfilled

By MARK SULLIVAN

As this session of Congress comes toward a close, its record is made the basis of political argument, especially by Republicans. This is done by listing what President Truman promised in his campaign last year, in his early messages to Congress in January and on other occasions. With this is compared what Congress has done.

As political argument this does not make a clear issue. The present Congress is only half over. There will be another session of it next year, and this gives Mr. Truman an opening for defense. He is free to say that what promises were not fulfilled in the present session will be ulfilled in the session next year. In formal speeches and informal statements he makes it apparent that the campaign for a new Congress next year, coinciding with the second session of the present one, will be fought, so far as Mr. Truman can make it so, on the same issues he used last year.

Mr. Truman's most concrete appeal last year was to two groups, labor and farmers. To labor he made a specific promise, repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law. This the present Congress was not able to accomplish. Whether revivial of that issue next year would help Mr. Truman is decidedly open to doubt.

The essence of the argument for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law is that it puts too great a handicap upon organized labor. Labor spokesmen who fought it last year called it the "slave" labor law. But the public has seen labor unions and leaders able, with the Taft-Hartley law in effect, to conduct strikes crippling to the public interest. At this moment there is a strike in the country's most basic industry, steel; a "walk-out" in coal, a strike on an important western railroad, threats of strikes in other industries. Within recent months, strikes or threats of strike have been successful in several industries. It will be difficult for Mr. Truman next year to convince voters that the power of labor unions and leaders is too greatly handicapped by the Taft-Hartley law.

To farmers, Mr. Truman's promise was continuation of price support for farm crops and more of it. A specific addition he promised, provision by the government of storage facilities for farm crops, was enacted in this session of Congress. But in Congress and the country has arisen a condition which is a threat to the heart of price support. The Republicans did not set themselves in opposition to Mr. Truman's promise about price support. They foresaw developments which would make it a headache to the administration, and followed a strategy of letting the administration sweat. Because of the immensity of this year's crops, the cost of support would be more than the government could safely stand. Consumers would rebel against the high prices of food brought about by price support of crops. Taxpayers would rebel against immense government exenditures for price support. Especially would people rebel at the double cost to them—first, taxes to pay for price support; then the excise prices of food brought about by the very money they had paid as taxes.

These developments got under way. The administration experienced the headache which the Republicans foresaw, and in March gave out the escape device which the Republicans were waiting for. This device, the Brannan plan, would keep price support as it now oerates as respects major crops which can be readily stored, such as grains. As to crops less readily storable, such as dairy products, the new plan would make an innovation.

Taxpayers Must Pay Bill

Prices of such crops would be allowed to fall to whatever was their natural level in the market. But the government would maintain the price support figure it fixes, and would play to farmers direct cash subsidies to make up the difference between the market price and the government's price support figure. The public as consumers would get some forms of food at a lower price, but the public as taxpayers would be obliged to pay the difference in the form of taxes used for subsidies.

Just how price support will figure in next year's congressional campaign is now being determined by debate in Congress. This wanders intricately and confusingly through the Brannan plan, through price support as it now operates, and several variations of both. A development recently emerging, forced by the immensity of this year's crops, is limitation of the acreage a farmer may plant, and regulation of him otherwise.

This may figure importantly in next year's election, for it is a large detail of a broad issue now getting momentum. It is called "statism," meaning regulation by government of men's occupations and other aspects of their lives. Mr. Truman calls statism a "scare word," but leaders on the highest level of non-partisan thought take it seriously and increasingly warn against it.

The Need For A Balanced Offense And Defense Clear

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—Will an atomic bomb explosion hurt you if you are a mile away? Commander Eugene Tatom of the Navy stirred up quite a controversy when he said that, although not an atom expert, he believed from what he read that at a distance of 6,000 feet or more the bomb wouldn't injure anyone.

Exception to this point has been taken by Senator McMahon of Connecticut and Representative Holifield of California.

It all depends, however, on what objects intervene between the center of the blast and its outer radius.

Dr. R. E. Lapp, a nuclear physicist who worked on the atomic bomb project during the war and was former director of the atomic energy committee of the research and development board of the National Military Establishment, has written frankly about this. He witnessed the Bikini tests and has handled A-bombs. He covered these very points in his recent book, "Must We Hide?" He says that you don't have to be a mile away—you can be only six feet away and still be safe-provided you are underground. He declares:

"Protection against the flash of thermal radiation is easily accomplished."

Then he shows by a diagram what is necessary at different distances from the explosion. At 1,000 feet distance, 32 inches of concrete is a sufficient protection. At 2,000 feet only 20 inches are required, and at 4,000 feet only 6 inches. At 5,000 feet, he says, "no shielding is required."

Commander Tatom referred to a distance of more than 6,000 feet as not requiring shielding.

Comparison Of Death Toils

Dr. Lapp says that more people died in Tokyo as a result of the conventional bombing and fire than died at Nagasaki where the A-bomb was detonated.

"Let us consider," says Dr. Lapp, "what an atomic bomb would do midtown Manhattan if it were burst over the intersection of 42nd street and Fifth avenue. We shall explode our hypothetical bomb about a thousand feet above the street or 200 feet below the tip of the Empire State Building. We must consider three effects of the bomb—the flash of heat, the flash of penetrating radiation, and the blast wave.

"In a city like New York, especially in the midtown area, the heat flash would not be too important, for more fires would probably start from secondary origin than from direct ignition.

"Most significant to the population would be the instantaneous burst of gamma rays that would flash out from the bomb. We believe that this radiation would give a lethal dose to a person in the open at a distance of slightly less than one mile. . .

"Directly under the center of the blast, people in the subways would be unaffected either by the blast or by the radiation. They would be perfected safe.

"People farther from the center of the blast would also be safe if they were in the lower floors of buildings shielded from the flash of radiation. . .

"Solid earth is not as effective as concrete in stopping gamma rays but a thickness of six feet will reduce even the intensities found near ground zero to safe values. . . moist earth is more effective than dry. . . ordinary building materials will not be made dangerously radioactive by exposure to bomb burst."

To Shield Military Installations

No nation is going to allow its important military installations to be exposed in the atomic age. Hitler put many of his factories underground and it is a fact that his submarine bases were built of such strong concrete protections as to make them absolutely invulnerable to any kind of bombs in the last war.

The meaning of this in terms of national strategy becomes clear. No single weapon can blitz the enemy into capitulation—and reliance on one weapon that delivers the A-bomb cannot assure the destruction of industrial installations underground. The need for a balanced offense and defense becomes obvious.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our Wandering Secretary

All of a sudden, amid great doings, our Secretary of State shows up on a Monday night at Hanover, New Hampshire, to attend a lecture by Joe Barnes, formerly editor of the flop, "The Star," which succeeded Marshall Field's flop, "PM." The local newspaper, "The Dartmouth," published Mr. Acheson's smiling photograph which gave Barnes's lecture a wonderful send-off. Acheson was in the audience as an attentive listener.

It was at this lecture that Barnes announced:

"I should say that the whole newspaper field is due for a change, and the change will come in the readers as well as the writers. I call it a good thing."

This is not a very novel idea, because if anything under the sun changes all the time, it is the newspapers of this country. Up in Dartmouth, they are giving a lecture course called "Great Issues" and they apparently needed an editor to talk about newspapers. So, instead of having someone with a great and successful career as an editor, they selected Barnes whose publication had a short and unsuccessful life. This is in keeping with the New Deal doctrine that if it is successful, like the duPonts or the A & P, it must be wrong.

About "Great Issues" at Dartmouth, Barnes said:

"This course gives them a certain awareness which will stay with them. Naturally this success will not show up at once, but when they are settled down, the curiosity which they have had stimulated here will remain active. They will be an example of changed reader interest."

I hope you get the point about what awareness arising from this lecture course does. I did not from reading this paragraph. Maybe it says something deep and esoteric. This is particularly interesting, because of a Tuesday, Barnes lectured on something about the Kremlin having a headache, too.

Dean Acheson did not stay for the Tuesday lecture, the United States apparently having some business that needed attending to. "The Dartmouth" opens its story with this quotation from Barnes:

"If we could learn to cope with this nightmare we have made of Russia and the Kremlin, it would greatly increase our effectiveness in dealing with them."

So we are to blame for the nightmare! Joe Stalin never did anything. A friend in Hanover, New Hampshire, who attended the lecture, writes that "The Dartmouth" did not report the lecture fully, which is obvious and understandable.

This person sends a number of quotes which the listener wrote down:

"I find people all over America afraid of the future . . .

"I want to talk to you about Soviet Russia which leads me to say that there is no reason for fear . . .

"There is one group of Russians whom I dislike: The censors, but I find that they are almost the only Russians for whom I desire to come to a bad end . . ."

Now it is very bad to pull quotations out of context and it is even worse to quote notes written on a pad during a lecture without reading the whole lecture. So maybe, it was all very good and strong for America and designed to make the boys at Dartmouth love the United States, but what I want to know is what the following means, and this is taken from the college paper:

"The quietly effective speaker claimed that he 'derives no pleasure out of these evidences,' but that 'if on these alone we can temper some of the extreme fear in the country, it will equip us to better understand Russia and will strengthen us to survive in competition with her.'"

So, Mr. Barnes wants us to temper our "extreme fear" of Soviet Russia. But does Stalin want us to temper that same extreme fear? If so, why is it that every proposal that this country or Great Britain or France, or any country has made at the United Nations or elsewhere, to achieve peace, to control and limit the atom bomb, to end the distress of the people of Europe, has been rejected and vetoed by Soviet Russia?

Is a campaign being projected to lull us into a false sense of well-being? Is that why Dean Acheson blessed this lecture course with his august presence?

Shower Given For Bride

Maryland Lambda Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, held a model meeting for its pledges and formulated plans for a tea in their honor Tuesday night at the Girl Scout House.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

NEW YORK

ARGUE and resist and protest and pretend—and still comes a time, inevitable as income taxes, that you will have to break down. . . The man said it wouldn't hurt much. . . In fact, he said, some people really enjoy it and others—hundreds of thousands would jeopardize their marriages, sneak away from their jobs, and draw out their savings to do it.

AUSTINE

This year it seems the champion teams, the New York Dodgers and the Brooklyn Yankees played against each other in the World Series. . . I just put that mixup in there to get your attention right in the beginning. Nothing gets so much attention as a mistake in baseball teams or terms.

The slightest slip can be spotted a mile off by the experts. And everybody is an expert. America is not divided by class, creed, or color, only into Baseball Know-Alls and Know-Nuthins. There is no way to "pass over" from one to the other.

The Know-Alls rave, and spot mistakes and the Know-Nuthins insist and protest that they don't want to go to the World Series it means nuthin', absolutely nuthin' to them.

But sooner or later, maybe not this year or next year, but sooner or later, comes the time when you can't hold out any longer. Somebody dies or drops out for some other dire reason and the ticket which hundreds of other people would do anything for will go to waste . . . (you still are not suspicious).

From a sense of duty or curiosity or just general fatigue you wave the white flag, give up, and agree to go to the World Series.

Once roped in you warm up slightly. Suddenly that day you notice newspapers screaming about the World Series, otherwise trustworthy friends broiling with excitement. . . Radio blasting about it and television too.

After all, it's American, great American sport. . . Democratic. . . Dodgers. . . Infielder. . . Babe Ruth. . . Punt or bunt or something. . . Homers. . . A slugger wearing Yankee livery. . . Cleveland Red Sox. . . Satchel Paige, Preacher Roe, and Pee Wee Reese. . . Double bases and stolen plays—your dream of consciousness skips happily over strange phrases and vague words that you think you may have heard or read in the years when you were fighting in the Resistance Movement.

However, no longer need you resist baseball information. . . No longer need you pretend you do not care. . . Now you're IN with the Know-Alls. . . They let you believe that for a while, with the half amused, half tolerant attitude some headwaiters assume.

At last the very hour comes! For your baptism of fire!

It has been decided by your tormentors that the party will leave for the field, I mean the ball park, ONE HOUR before the game is scheduled to begin. Don't ask questions. You will know soon enough.

A mouse colored gray suit is appropriate garb for attending World Series baseball games. Must be discreet. Nothing conspicuous or you will be shot on sight by husband, beau, brother, or mere acquaintance.

Also you will be ready on time, or else.

If it looks like rain, which it always does on the day of your first game, do not take rubbers or raincoat or umbrella or any sort, kind or type of protective covering. . . Just don't try to, that's all. Relatives would not be able to identify the body.

Be on time and keep clam still. Notice everything with child-like attention . . . everything like this:

The Waldorf, like every hotel, stuffed, bulging at the seams. . . Wonder what businesses, all those businessmen are in. . . What towns they have flocked from. . . St. Louis? San Francisco? Everywhere, I guess. . . They mill around piling in cabs and hired limousines, having the time of their lives—away from their wives.

You are speeding up Central Park West toward the Yankee Stadium. At a traffic light a man leans out and hellos from the next car. He's with a toothsome tower of curves, a Bergdorf model; and he's a hucksters from the Coast, a guy who takes girls to games and things.

Turn into Ruppert Place, named after the beer man who used to own the team.

At the gate a black robed nun sits hoping for contributions as the wild bulls charge past her.

Inside the stadium you look around timidly. Off in the distance some fans have climbed up on a water tower hanging on for dear life. Wonder who controls THOSE seats? Other fans perch on a big Burma Shave sign way over by the bleachers where the crowd looks all white. Over there they take their coats off. . . Philip Morris, Gem Razor signs. . . Then one saying "No Betting." . . Another, "Anyone going on field or interfering with play subject to arrest."

Joe Louis trailing an entourage passes me by. . . Gene Tunney in a stiff gray bowler. . . Niles Trammel, head of NBC, in a floppy brown felt. . . Gene Autry affects sombrero. . . Planes fly overhead, helicopters hover and dirigibles advertise Tydol gas.

The great roar of the crowd dies instantly when "the Star Spangled Banner" begins . . . clapping and cheering welcome Don Newcombe, the colored player. . . Clouds of smoke rise from thousands of cigars and cigarettes. . . From then on the cheering, stamping, screaming, and yelling, get louder and louder.

Every once in a while I can't see anything because everybody stands up. . . Right after intermission somebody smacks a homer and the game is over.

No, it din't hurt a bit. . . Except coming out of the anesthetic one feels a bit dizzy. . . Probably won't leave a scar.

Another World Series?

Yes, I might undergo it again—in a year.

The shape of your face is the guiding factor in the correct placement of rouge. Follow today's guides.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

IF you use cosmetics successfully you will be "made-down" rather than "made-up." Others will never be aware of anything you have on your face (except lipstick) but aware only of your radiant, glowing complexion. They'll wonder how you keep your wonderful color in a season of waning sunlight, but never what brand of cosmetics you use. And you'll be one woman in a hundred! It's a goal worth striving for.

Rouge, the Offender

The artful use of cosmetics is an attempt to simulate or accent the beauty that springs from good health. Why then, do we see rouge so frequently applied in patches, blotches or circles, which actually look only like an ugly, disfiguring skin blemish? Any woman who developed one half as red would certainly hot foot it to the nearest dermatologist for treatment!

Rouge should and can be applied so that it looks like your own, underlying skin tone. It must be applied to give a natural effect. Only then does it become a beautifier, heightening your own general coloring; banishing sallowness, exiling fatigue and modulating the shape of your face.

To apply rouge expertly, you must first analyze the shape of your face to discover the correct placement for your particular facial contour. Use the following guides to learn to put your rouge where it belongs!

Rouge, the Beautifier

If your face is square or rectangular, dot your rouge just below the circle under the outside edge of the pupil of your eye. Place a second dot at the highest point of your cheek bone. Put another dot an inch below the second one. After the rouge is blended, this placement will round out the square face and shorten the rectangular one.

If your face is triangular, round or a diamond, dot the rouge under the circle at the inside edge of the pupil of your eye. Place a second dot at the inside edge of your cheek bone. The third, a half-inch below the second. When the rouge is blended, this placement will minimize the cheek bones of the triangular and diamond faces and draw attention away from the arc of the round face.

If your face is oval, smile at yourself! Not only because you're lucky, but to find the puff in your cheek which is exactly the right place to dot your rouge on in a triangle. When your rouge is blended, you will find that you have not detracted from your natural oval.

Caution: Blend your rouge with your finger tips in light upward strokes. Its beginning and end must be undetectable!

NO MATTER WHAT THE GARMENT IS, DRESS, SUIT OR HAT, THIS YEAR GREEN LEADS THE COLOR LINEUP

By PAT FULLERTON
News Staff Writer

What makes a color a season's favorite? Sometimes, fashion czars really talk the feminine world into their choice of the year. But, there are other shades that women take to their hearts with no urging from anyone.

This year it's green. There's no two ways about, women love it. And, no wonder, there are very few who can't wear some shade of this versatile color. It combines with either of the accessory stand-bys brown or black.

Besides, green is wonderful against a background of fall leaves, football games and autumn bonfires.

Do you doubt its popularity? Look at the number of women in Cumberland who have come out in green shoes. Could there be any better test?

Look at your jersey blouse displays. Many colors might not be there, but green and its companion, beige or copper will be on the racks.

With the exception of black, there is no other color that takes so happily to any kind of fabric.

Tweeds, jerseys and corduroys, of course were always meant for nature's colors. But, have you ever noticed the wonderful richness of emerald green satin or deep green velveteen?

Suede is perfect for green tones. Even as it ages, the color does not leave but becomes darker and richer like good leather.

Maybe its popularity comes from the fact that green is all around us everyday in the out-of-doors. It's natural to everyone. Have you ever seen a room decorated in green that wasn't restful and "just right" looking.

It's really amusing to think that designers look for years for new colors to tempt the females pocketbook and find the most successful literally in their own back yard.

Elizabeth Wilson Featured In Barter Theatre Plays

ELIZABETH WILSON

Elizabeth Wilson, one of the most talented of the Barter Theatre actresses, will play in important roles in Barter productions this season at Allegany High School auditorium.

The season opens October 20 with "The Imaginary Invalid."

Miss Wilson got her start in professional theatre when Helen Hayes, whom she met while starring in a neighborhood theatre production in New York, encouraged her and helped her.

She started her professional career in the Grand Rapids, Mich., Civic Theatre, in her home town. Later, while still in college, she played two years of summer stock at the Nantucket Playhouse in Massachusetts.

Miss Wilson later received professional training as a scholarship student at the New York Playhouse, where she was discovered by Miss Hayes.

In Barter plays for the past two seasons, Miss Wilson took the roles of Catherine in "Arms and the Man," Mama in "Papa Is All," Jessie in "Widow's Walk," Emily in "Voltaire," Darla in "Cain's Keep," and Mary in "State of the Union."

During the past summer season at Abingdon, Va., home of the Barter company, Miss Wilson has established herself as the best character actress in the troupe.

Among her best performances were Toinet in "The Imaginary Invalid," Mrs. Deazy in the first show of the season, "Jenny Kissed Me," and Elizabeth in "Angel Street."

In two new plays presented at Abingdon this season, she played in "Keepers of the House" and "Count Your Blessings."

Piano Topples Over, Crushing Two Tots

CORTLAND, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Two young brothers were crushed to death today when a piano their mother was moving toppled over.

Doug, 4, and Roy Stebbins, 3, were playing on the living room floor of their home, southeast of here.

Their mother, Mrs. Andrew Stebbins, ran a quarter of a mile before she found two neighbors to help her right the piano.

Witnesses Advocate World Federation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Development of an international organization in which war would be outlawed and aggression slapped down by a world police force was advocated before the House Foreign Affairs Committee today.

A parade of witnesses—most of them congressmen — supported the idea as the committee opened hearings on a resolution proposing that Congress go on record in favor of a world federation.

A telegram from Bernard M. Baruch, advisor to Presidents, urging that war be outlawed, was read into the record by Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), a committee member.

Planes Aid In Search For Maryland Boy

COLESVILLE, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) — Search parties, at times aided by two airplanes and soldiers and marines, vainly sought six-year-old Otis T. Mason today.

Tonight, as search for the little boy was stopped until morning, his father expressed fear of foul play.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mason, disappeared Tuesday night.

His father, a plumbing and heating contractor, said the boy suffered from a thryoid condition and was unusually strong for his age — more like a 12-year-old — but may have been stricken helpless by his malady.

Local Pilot Reported Lost In Japan

A rescue squadron is searching for an Air Force F-80 Shooting Star, piloted by Lt. Walter J. Stimler, 26, Braddock Farms, which was reported yesterday to have dropped into the straits between Honshu and Hokkaido, Japan.

Lt. Stimler

Japanese fisherman reported they saw the plane hit the water after touching wings with another plane in a routine training mission, but did not see anyone bail out.

Lt. Stimler is the son of Mrs. Edith Stimler, Braddock Road, prominent lay leader in the Salvation Army. He was a member of the organization and a teacher at the Citadel Sunday School before leaving here.

Lt. Stimler left for Japan a year ago Thanksgiving and was joined in April by his wife, the former Florence Roberson, and their two sons, Jay, three, and Al, who will be three Saturday. They have been living at Misawa Air Force Base, Honshu.

Before entering the Air Force in 1942, Lt. Stimler was graduated from Allegany High School in 1941 and was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He received his pilot's wings in March, 1943, at Williams Field, Ariz. After receiving his discharge at the end of the war, he returned to Cumberland and worked for the B. and O. He reenlisted as a pilot in 1947.

Lt. Stimler's father, John Stimler, died 24 years ago. He has a sister, Capt. Catherine Stimler, a staff officer of the Salvation Army Home and Hospital, San Antonio, Texas; a brother, Robert Stimler, Havre de Grace, and an aunt, Mrs. Irene Wagley, who resides at the Stimler home in Braddock Farms.

Divorce Granted

Mrs. Ethel Sones, Canonsburg, Pa., was awarded a divorce from Warren D. Sones, Jr., yesterday in Pittsburgh by Judge A. Marshall Thompson on grounds of mistreatment.

Sones was the object of a police search last July when his wife charged that he stole their two-year-old daughter from their home at 304 South Pacific Avenue.

He was arrested two weeks later in a Cumberland tourist camp, and the little girl, unharmed, was returned to her mother. Mrs. Sones was awarded custody of the child in a subsequent hearing.

Local Man Held In Gallitzin Jail

Andrew Robinson, 39, this city, is being held in Gallitzin, Pa., Jail for hearing Monday at Ebensburg, Pa., on a charge of robbing the Gallitzin American Legion Home and Station Supply Company over the weekend.

Two other men, William F. Jackson, 53, and Rupert Welch, 35, both of Pittsburgh, who were arrested with Robison at Portage, Pa., face charges of receiving stolen goods.

Chief of Police Francis Knee, Gallitzin, said all three entered pleas of guilty when arraigned Monday and were committed to jail pending trial.

The most frequent and most severe thunderstorms occur in Java.

Jury Dismissed In Garrett County

A $50,000 damage suit brought by Clara C. Shaffer against Arnold E. Fox was dismissed by Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., after a Garrett County Circuit Court jury failed to agree and was dismissed. The case will be rescheduled later.

Miss Shaffer, health nurse, alleges head and back injuries in an automobile accident March 15.

A number of other damage suits removed to the Garrett Court from Allegany County are being heard.

A case originally docketed at Oakland has been removed to Allegany County for hearing. This involved a suit for $120,000 filed by Mrs. Ruth Wright and her husband, Leslie M. Wright, as the result of an automobile-train accident in Oakland in which Mrs. Wright was injured. Defendants in this suit are Howard Tasker, Ralph Pritts, trading as Pritts Garage and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Ezzard Charles To Defend Heavyweight Title Tomorrow

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(INS)—Like Columbus, we've made a discovery.

We've discovered that we've been underrating Eastern football.

Tubthumpers for colleges in other sections of the country, notably for the Big Nine, have told us so often for so many years of their superiority that we had developed an inferiority complex.

We should have known better. We should have realized that American boys average about the same, physically and mentally, in every section of the land.

We also should have realized that kids from the East star on college teams from Canada to the gulf and that youngsters from other sections are topnotchers on Eastern teams.

It is merely a question of which colleges manage to corral the best talent—football talent, that is. Some, of course, offer far more inducements (a tactful word) to get good teams.

The Army brought us a quick realization of the facts only last Saturday when it went West to deflate an undoubtedly fine Michigan team.

We were told—and we quote from mid-western blurbs—that "Michigan has the best team in the land, that Michigan was thirsting for revenge for previous defeats inflicted by Army and that Army would be slaughtered this time."

So what happened? Just this: Army 21, Michigan 7.

We don't claim that Army is the best team in the land. But we do insist that Army and perhaps several others in the East can give teams from any other section at least a good even battle.

Incidentally, here's a tip for you: Navy has a powerhouse coming up next year. They have a Plebe (freshman) team down at Annapolis which, we've been told, can run the varsity ragged, and Navy brass expects the Navy to clean up all hands next year, including Notre Dame.

It seems to be a universal custom to deride the brand of football played by the Ivy League colleges. But the fact is that some of the Ivy Leaguers have more than held their own with the toughest colleges in other sections.

You may recall the gales of laughter that swept the country some years ago when "poor little Columbia" was selected for slaughter by mighty Stanford in the Rose Bowl?

You also may recall how Columbia took them over in the rain and mud. The mud was offered as an alibi for Stanford's defeat but Columbia played in the same mud.

And hasn't another Ivy Leaguer, Cornell, taken over supposedly superior Ohio State teams once or twice? And didn't little Maryland look pretty good losing by only one touchdown to Michigan State last week?

Hereafter, we are going to go slow in picking any good Eastern team to lose an intersectional game merely because it is from the supposedly "effete" East.

Pro Tennis Group Will Tour Europe

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Pancho Gonzales, and Frank Parker, the two latest recruits to professional tennis, will tour parts of Europe as well as the United States.

Gonzales, who retained his National Amateur championship at Forest Hills this summer, will meet Jack Kramer, world professional titleholder, in the opening match of the swing at Madison Square Garden Oct. 25. Parker, longtime amateur star, will cross rackets with Pancho Segura of Ecudor.

Promoter Bobby Riggs, a former champion himself, announced today that the quartet will play at London's Wembley Stadium, Dec. 26, 27, 28. They will cross the channel to appear in Paris, Jan. 1, and 2.

Magazine To Have Women Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Jeane Hoffman, 29-year old sports writer, will become executive editor of the Police Gazette Monday—the first woman ever to hold a key executive post with the century old publication.

Harold H. Roswell, editor and publisher of the monthly magazine, said in announcing Miss Hoffman's appointment that the job was a newly-created one made necessary by expansion of the size of the publication and a return to major emphasis on sports.

Potomac State Leads Rushing In Conference

Morris Harvey Is Tops Defensively

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 12 (AP) — Pete Tuccio, Bellaire, O., product performing in the West Liberty backfield, stood out prominently today in the first state collegiate conference football statistics of the season.

Figures released by conference statistician George Springer showed Tuccio leading in yards gained from rushing and from rushing and passing combined — he had 340 yards, all from rushing—and he was fifth in yards per carry with 6.2.

Tuccio's teammate, Bill Yount was in total yards gained by passing with 125, a figure which placed the ex-Martins Ferry, O., back third among the leaders in the combined rushing and passing column.

Dewey Romine of Morris Harvey had the best average per carry, a 10.2 mark he compiled in his only outing against Davis and Elkins.

In yards gained by rushing, Tech's Randy Cooper was second with 286 and Jack Booth of Potomac State third with 243. Cooper ranked third in ball-carrying averages with 7.9 yards.

Ken Bruce of Fairmont topped all punters with an average of 45.8 yards per kick, with Concord's Hofstetter second at 41.3.

Cooper led in average return of punts with a mark of 26.5 on 53 yards in two returns. Riffle of Davis and Elkins was the leader in the return of kick-offs, running back three against Bethany for 75 yards and a 25-yard average.

Here are the first team leaders of the new season.

Offensively — rushing average per game, Potomac State, 317 yards; passing average, D. and E., 157; rushing-passing average, Morris Harvey, 297; pass completions, Morris Harvey, .562 (13 for 23); runback punt average, Shepherd, 30; kickoff return average, Potomac, 26.1.

Simmons Seeks Kicking Laurels

West Virginian Has 12 Straight Points

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 12 —"The Toe," who needs no introduction to West Virginia football fans, hopes he gets several chances to improve his record Friday when the Mountaineers collide with Boston U. at Boston in their only after-dark battle of the season.

To strangers, "The Toe" is 140-pound Gene Simmons, a junior from Elkins, W. Va., who is the nearest thing to a mechanical man the Mountaineers have ever had. He dropkicks West Virginia's points after touchdowns and with the season four games old, he has a perfect 12 for 12 record.

Is he happy with his job? Definitely — except that would welcome more opportunities to exercise his educated right foot.

In his first varsity campaign, he booted 29 in 37 extra point attempts plus a pair of field goals for a grand total of 35 points. His longest string was 13 straight. He could break that record at B. U. if his mates get the necessary touchdowns.

So far, "The Toe" hasn't had any luck with field goals this year, missing single attempts against Waynesburg and Washington and Lee, but he isn't complaining. He figures he will get a couple across somewhere along the line.

Reds Buy Three Players From Tulsa

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who finished seventh in the National League pennant race this year, today bought the contracts of a pitcher, a first baseman and an outfielder from Tulsa of the Texas League.

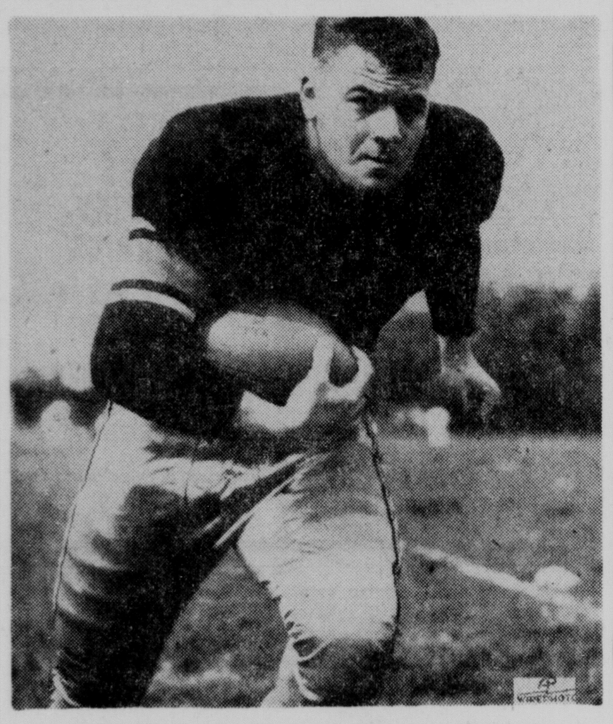
The new players are Russ Burns, outfielder, who led the league in runs batted in—153; Joe Adcock, first baseman who knocked in 107 runs, and Pitcher Frank Smith, who won 17 games and lost 11.

Munger Is Added To Northern Staff

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 12 (AP) — George Munger, coach at the University of Pennsylvania, has been added to the Northern coaching staff for the annual Blue-Gray college all-star football game Dec. 31.

Champ Pickens, Blue-Gray general manager, announced today that Munger had accepted an invitation to replace Ox Dagroza, former Temple coach, on the Northern staff.

Head Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois and Rip Engle of Brown have also agreed to coach the Blue squad, Pickens said.



NAVY SPARKPLUG — Bob Zastrow (above), the Navy football team's 208-pound quarterback, is being hailed by many as an All-America candidate, despite the fact he has played in only three varsity games. The Algoma, Wis., lad has paced the Sailors to two victories this season with his sensational bullseye passing.

Dyer To Remain, Cards To Make Player Changes

Owner Disappointed In Team Foldup

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12 (AP) — Eddie Dyer will be back as manager next year, but some player changes are in store for the St. Louis Cardinals if deals can be arranged.

Owner Fred Saigh, still smarting over the collapse of the Cardinals in the final week of the season that cost them the pennant, left no doubt about Dyer's status.

"I am completely satisfied with Dyer, and he will manage the Cardinals in 1950," Saigh said.

Although Dyer's two-year contract doesn't expire for another year, there had been some speculation that he might be replaced.

The Cards lost out to Brooklyn in the pennant chase by the narrow margin of one game.

Saight disclosed he has already sounded out four National league clubs on possible player trades. He observed it might be difficult to arrange for trades since other clubs hesitate to strengthen a pennant contender.

But the owner expressed willingness to part with front-line strength, perhaps a pitcher, to get what he wants.

His talks with officials of the Giants, Cubs, Dodgers and Pirates have been only preliminary, but may be resumed, at any time, Saigh said.

He did not name any of the players he is after but said he wants a catcher, a right-hand hitting outfielder, and an understudy shortstop to provide some rest for the veteran Marty Marion.

"We won't give up too much of our first-line strength, as it must not be forgotten that we did finish a very close second last season," Saigh said.

"We were all very disappointed that we lost, but at the same time the team which beat us out was only one game ahead. So there was very little difference between the two.

"Our first-line strength therefore was strong and we do not plan to break up much of it, but we do hope to strengthen the team."

Powers All-Around Threat In Duke's Offensive Backfield

Tommy Powers, former Allegany High School athlete, who was a four-sport star while playing for the Campers, is coming into his own in the Duke University football plans at Durham, N. C.

The 185-pound sophomore has run the ball, received passes, run back kicks and punts so well in games played to date so that he has been moved to a starting role in Coach Wallace Wade's Blue Devil aggregation.

Tommy gained 56 yards rushing on one play against Navy last week, he has caught two passes for a total of 59 yards, run back one kickoff 12 yards, scored one touchdown, intercepted a pass and returned seven punts a total of 81 yards in the three games Duke has played this season.

Century, VFW Win Shuffleboard Tilts

Century A. C., Veterans of Foreign Wars, Woodman of the World and Stadium Inn won shuffleboard matches by identical 2-1 scores last night in the Ladies National Shuffleboard League.

Century turned back Military Order of Purple Heart ladies, Vets tripped Ruth's Tavern and Woodmen edged Moose on the losers' boards while Stadium Inn was the only host team to win, defeating Owls.

Elizabeth Abrams of the Woodmen was top scorer for the night with 25 pints. Zalene Norris had 24 tallies for VFW, Myrtle Stratton collected 22 for Century, Ella Keffler 21 for Purple Heart, Helen Metz 18 for Ruth's, Helen Goad 18 for Moose and Dolly Minnicks 18 for Stadium Inn.

Vols' Chancey Is Declared Ineligible

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12. (AP) —Fullback Ralph Chancey, co-captain of the University of Tennessee football team, was declared ineligible today.

Chancey played on the Tennessee team as a freshman in 1942 and was a member of the varsity squad for the last three years after returning from Army service.

The status of the big Tennessee fullback was questioned yesterday and Southeastern Conference Commissioner Bernie Moore asked university officials to investigate.

N. W. Dougherty, chairman of the University Athletic Council and secretary of the conference, said he found that Chancey played as a freshman and had ruled him ineligible.

Petruska Will Start Against Navy Eleven

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 12 (AP) — Bob Petruska, who has been limping all week, will start at quarterback against Navy Saturday, University of Wisconsin coach Ivan Williamson said today.

Petruska and John Coatta, the two regular slot men in Wisconsin's T, both came out of the California game with injuries. Coatta is not expected to play against Navy. The Midshipmen, 44 strong, will arrive here Friday by plane.

Yankees Miffed At Brooklyn Claim To Best Farm System

Stengel Plans To Strengthen Champs; Praises Tom Henrich

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP) — "Who won the world series anyhow?"

George Weiss, the normally mild general manager of the New York Yankees was blowing off long-supressed steam. The occasion was a final press conference with Casey Stengel before the Yank manager left for California and a two-month vacation.

"All I read is that the better team lost," said Weiss, who made his reputation building the Yankee farm system, "and that Brooklyn is going to win the next 10 years.

Use More Players

"Just analyze the two farm systems. You'll find we have brought up and use more players on the Yankee club than Brooklyn.

"You hear about all their young players. Well, I think we are in 11 leagues with them and we beat them six of 11.

"If our players are any good, we bring them up, not sell them. In the last three years, 37 farm players sifted through the Yankees. By that I mean they either played with us or were used in deals to strengthen the New York club.

"This is a winning ball club and it has a nucleus of young players. We're not going to talk about any wholesale shifts.

Weiss was more than a little miffed at the Dodger farm system claims, particularly after the Yanks humbled the Brooks 4 games to 1 in the world series.

"Our talent runs 5 to 1 better than Brooklyn's," said Scout Joe Devine, who could be slightly prejudiced because he works for the Yanks.

Stengel, who held the floor for the greater part of the hour long conference, listened with interest while Weiss talked.

Sitting quietly in the plush Yankee Fifth Avenue headquarters, Stengel answered all questions about his ball club.

Henrich Is Best

"Tommy Henrich is the best right fielder and the best first baseman in the league," Stengel said once more. He has been saying that since spring training.

"You never sit tight," he added, "you can't afford to stand pat in this league. We may try to strengthen our pitching although it looked pretty good in the last week. Sure we could use a couple of pitchers.

"I'd like to study my outfield and improve it a little if it could be done. We're not going to close up this place here. We're willing to listen."

Somebody asked if he expected Joe Dimaggio to be as good as ever. The answer was in keeping with the question.

"I only hope he beats that Boston team five times again," said Casey, "they look pretty good to me."

Proceeds Announced In Leagues Playoff

Secretary Bob Whip of the Interstate Baseball League announced last night that 416 cash customers paid to see the first game between Westvaco of the Bi-State League and Moorefield of the Interstate last week in Westernport. Westvaco won 14-1.

The two leagues will get 5% of the gate receipts after the best-of-three series is over while the two clubs will split the remainder.

Rain held the gate at Westernport down so that only $208 was realized. Sunday's game at Moorefield beginning at 2:30 p. m. is expected to draw a larger crowd.

Changes Planned In AHS Lineup For Keyser Tilt

Coach Bob Pence put his Allegany High School Campers through a stiff offensive drill yesterday and then announced last night he is contemplating several changes in his lineup for Saturday's gridiron tilt with Keyser at the local stadium.

The popular AHS mentor reported the squad was in good shape with all regulars off the injured list although Ronnie Sisk still is taking light drills because of his injured shoulder. Sisk may not start Saturday's contest but he is expected to see action.

The Campers will stress defensive play the remainder of the week.

Philadelphia Defense Tops Pro Grid Loop

Redskins Are Best Offensive Team

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12. (AP)—The champion Philadelphia Eagles and the Washington Redskins are setting the pacing defensively and offensively respectively in the National Football League.

Statistics released today show that the Eagles in winning three games have held their opponents to the lowest number of points, 17; the fewest number of first downs, 27, and the smallest amount of yards gained, 456.

The champion's opponents also have been held to the lowest average per rush, three yards, and the smallest number of completed passes, 28.6 per cent.

Although the Eagles also hold the lead in rushing with 675 yards along the ground, they rank no better than fourth in total offense. The Redskins head that division with 739 yards by forward passes and 447 yards rushing for a total of 1,186 yards in three games.

Los Angeles tops the league in touchdowns, 13, and total points, 106. The New York Giants are second in both departments with 12 and 90.

The Giants also have circuit's top passer in Charles Conerly.

The former Mississippi star has completed 37 out of 65 passes for a 56.9 average. His aerials have gained 427 yards. The old reliable Sammy Baugh of the Redskins is in second place with 32 completions out of 60 thrown for a 53.3 average.

Baugh's overhead attack has been good for 543 yards—tops in the league.

The Eagles' Steve Van Buren still is the No. 1 ground gainer. He has picked up 291 yards in 80 carries.

Two Teams Drop Out Of Cage Loop

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP) — Schenectady, N. Y., has been added to the American Basketball League but Philadelphia and New York have withdrawn, league president John J. O'Brien said today.

Both Philadelphia and New York suspended play because of inability to find adequate sites.

In addition to Schenectady, other teams in the circuit are Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn., Paterson and Trenton, N. J., Scranton and Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Name Gopher Center Best Grid Lineman

Clayton Tonnemaker Plagued Wildcats

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 12. (AP)—A pleasant young fellow whose keen football sense puts him in the opposing team's backfield quite a bit has been chosen as lineman of the week.

Named in the Associated Press' third poll of the season was Clayton Tonnemaker, Minnesota's burly center. Chief reason for his selection was his play in the Northwestern game last Saturday, won by Minnesota, 21-7.

"It was Tonnemaker who wrecked us in that first half," said Don Heap, assistant Northwestern coach. The Gophers led 14-0 at halftime.

Heap wasn't exaggerating. In his line-backing position on defense, "Tonny" smelled out virtually every play Northwestern tried and made more than his share of tackles.

"Naturally, I'm pleased—I don't imagine I deserve the honor," Tonnemaker said. "But it's really nice. I've been watching that lineman of the week but I never thought I'd make it."

Outside of saying he was aiming at a professional football career, he didn't have anything else to say. His hopes for a pro career probably will be realized for, in the estimation of George Svendsen, assistant coach at Minnesota, Tonnemaker is the "best pro prospect I've ever seen.

Tonnemaker is co-captain of the Gophers.

Tonnemaker won the designation over Lou Creekmur, William and Mary tackle; Bob Jablonski, Yale guard, and J. D. Ison, Baylor end.

Winners of the first two polls were Howard Houston, Harvard tackle, and Art Weiner, North Carolina end.

Starting Gate Patent Infringement Charged

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12. (AP)—Electrical starting gates, which a horse racing expert said revolutionized the sport, were the subject today of a patent infringement trial in federal court here.

The Puett Electric Starting Gate Corporation charges the United Starting Gate Corporation with infringements on its patents and unfair competition.

Walter H. Donovan, general manager of the Garden State Race Association which operates the Camden, N. J. track, said the electric starting gate is one of three developments which revolutionized horse racing. He listed the Totalizator, the automatic computer of odds and prices, and the electric camera used in photo finishes as the other two.

N.B.A. Champ Is 5-1 Favorite Over Valentino

Cincinnati Negro Seeks Recognition Of New York State

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12 (INS) —Both champion and challenger coasted into the stretch today before Friday's Ezzard Charles-Pat Valentino fight while the odds against the Californian climbed again.

Ringwise bettors are giving 5-1 that the lean, angular NBA champion can whip Valentino and even money that the local hope won't go nine rounds.

Despite the odds Valentino said his "worries are over." The husky challenger, dubbed "The Mop" because of a wild shock of uncut black hair, said:

"Anyone can lose a fight and you win if you can. I did all my worrying during the last three weeks, That's finished."

Valentino eased off with two workouts yesterday in which he swung his customary driving body punches but he wasn't as impressive as usual.

Charles, who has kayoed 39 contenders in 72 professional fights, went six fast rounds against three of his unhappy mates.

The NBA champ said he doesn't know why New York state hasn't recognized him as heavyweight champion, adding:

"Maybe Col. Eagan (Eddie Eagan of the New York Boxing Commission) thinks I should fight a little longer before giving me recognition. If I look good here maybe he'll do it."

Promoter Bill Kyne said it is certain now that a local man will referee the bout and insiders believe Frankie Brown will get the call. Jack Dempsey turned down Kyne's $1,000 offer to appear as third man.

Yale Polio Victim Released By Hospital

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 12 (AP) —Dale Leichty, Yale football player, has been released from New Haven hospital where he had been under treatment for a mild case of infantile paralysis.

The 22-year-old fullback from Lake Geneva, Wis., was said by Yale spokesmen to have suffered little ill effects from his illness. In fact, one Yale A. A. official said, there's an "outside chance" that Leichty will be playing football again before the season's over.

Leichty is one of three Yale seniors who became ill with polio three weeks ago, forcing cancellation of the Fordham game.

Browns Drop Club In Canadian Loop

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP) — The St. Louis Browns have ended their working agreement with the Gloversville teams of the Canadian-American League, Robert S. Rothschild, club president, announced today.

Rothschild said the American League team took the action in carrying out a plan to re-locate its farm teams west of the Mississippi.

Basis Scores Garden Upset

Jamaica Track Opens Fall Meet

CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP) — James Cox Brady's Basis scored to a thrilling upset triumph in the $7,500 added Quaker City handicap at Garden State Park today before a Columbus Day crowd of 17,595.

The four year old son of Bahram, running powerfully through the homelane, hit the tape a length in the van of High Trend, with Mesmer, the New England invader, a head farther back in third place. Faraway was fourth in the twelve-horse field.

Basis, ridden capably by Jockey Angel Rivera, was neglected in the wagering. He negotiated the one mile in 1:38 3-5 and paid off to the tune of $26.80, $10.80 and $5.60 across the board. High Trend rewarded backers with $7.80 to place and $5.60 to show, while Mesmer paid $3.40.

Mother Cops Feature

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) —Mother, a gray roan five-year-old mare, owned by C. V. Whitney, raced to a two-length victory in the Queen Isabella handicap which featured the Columbus Day program here.

Christiana Stables' Camargo, which set the pace the best part of the way in the mile and an eighth event, took second three parts of a length in front of King Ranch's Bebita. The latter was fourth and Loraine fifth and last.

Mother was backed down to $3.40 for two odds. Clarence Picou piloted the winner, which turned the distance in 1.51 4-5, fastest time the stakes was run since Vagrancy was clocked in 1.51 in 1942.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP) — Skipping through a big opening along the rail, Mrs. Esther DuPont Weir's Royal Governor, won the 28th running of the $15,000 added Interborough Handicap before a Columbus Day crowd of 30,535 as the six-day fall meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club opened at Jamaica race track today.

Last at the quarter pole, Royal Governor, hard ridden by Eric Guerin, saved a half dozen lengths by dashing along the rail as the rest of the field swung wide turning for home. At the finish line, the 5-year old son of Pilate-Feathers was a length clear to Woolford Farm's Delegate, the 2 to 1 favorite, who outphotoed Pipette for the place award.

Dingle May Have Relief From Fly Ash Soon

Residents of the Dingle may have relief from fly ash as a result of catalytic tests planned at the river plant of the Potomac Edison Company next week, Smoke Abatement Engineer George M. Hitchcock announced yesterday.

Preliminary tests got underway Monday. Fly ash expended from the eight stacks of the plant is being alternated in the daytime where formerly it was expended at night and from all at once.

The smoke abatement engineer explained that four of the stacks are rapped at intervals of a minute or so each half hour with the result that the amount of fly ash at any one time greatly has been reduced.

Hitchcock noted that the amount deposited might have been less but since the tests have begun, a prevailing wind has been toward the Dingle section. The affect of the weather conditions on the amount of fly ash deposited has been shown in the past, he said. With the wind blowing in the opposite direction, most of the deposit went to the West Virginia side of the river.

However, since the smoke abatement engineer is interested in elimination, not distribution of fly ash, he remarked that the plant is not violating the city ordinance in regards to maximum output.

Currently, the plant is holding to its maximum although when he first came here an overload was in evidence. The cutback has occurred, he said, because of other electrical supply lines into the city and the cut in industrial operation.

By the first of the week, it is hoped to have the stack rappings to a 15-minute interval, a plan, which Hitchcock believes, will cut the fly ash further.

Hitchcock is interested in a plan to dampen the fly ash. The dampened ash, when stacks are rapped, would drop into a bucket, instead of being blown over the city, he said.

Engineering teams will be here next Monday to work out such a formula from the National Alumniate Company, Chicago; the Acorn Refinery Company, Cleveland; Delta Engineering, Chicago, and the Smokeater Corporation, Washington, D. C.

The same preliminaries are being conducted at the PE heating plant on Union Street, Hitchcock said, adding that the problem there slowly is being reduced.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Hitchcock has been elected to membership in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Membership in the society, or being eligible to become a member, is a requirement governing the smoke abatement engineer by city ordinance.

The so-called century plant usually blooms in ten years, not 100 years, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

State Will Survey Town Creek Road

The State Roads Commission plans to make a primary survey of lower Town Creek Road during the first part of November, with the view of hard surfacing a section of the thoroughfare.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board of County Commissioners, has received a letter from Allan Lee, engineer of road design, explaining that the state plans to send a survey party to the area.

The Town Creek Road is regarded as one of the major farm to market roadways in the county, and has been included in the county's federal aid road building program, Wilkinson said.

Barton Students Plan For Halloween Projects

BARTON — In an effort to prevent harmful Halloween pranks, students of Barton Elementary and High School have agreed to promote worthwhile activities.

The action followed an assembly called by Principal Alfred H. Benna, who asked each class to undertake a project.

All students in grades seven to 11 are eligible to take part, and the winner will receive a prize to be donated by local merchants.

The ninth grade plans to draw up a petition in keeping with a better Halloween program for Barton.

In an effort to prevent soaping windows on Halloween, members of the seventh grade decided to watch for such pranks. Any one caught soaping windows will be required to give a bar of soap to be sent to Europe.

Slogan of that project is "If they have soap to waste, they have soap to give."

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 12 (INS)—Right on the heels of Gertrude Lawrence's remark to me that June Havoc didn't make enough pictures, and that she is the nearest thing to Jeanne Eagles in Hollywood, comes news of June which should interest Gertie.

June Havoc

Here's the news: June will have the top femme role in "The Iron Cage" for W. Lee Wilder, Billy's brother. She will play a shoplifter in a story based on an actual happening in the police files. It is a semi-documentary, and undoubtedly one of those crime doesn't pay epics.

Assisting June at the Nassour Studios is Cesar Romeo, who gets a top role. Cesar and 20th Century-Fox are parting after many years together, and this is his first for United Artists.

• — • — •

You are safe in betting your last dollar that when the group of young Selznick players open in St. Louis November 2, Louis Jourdan will be among the missing. Jourdan is still on suspension because of his refusal to play in "Duel in Venice" in Italy.

I feel sorry for Louis. He's such a nice person, and he hasn't had the breaks he should have. I know of two studios who would like to buy his contract, but there doesn't seem to be a chance of Selznick letting him go.

Paul Small, who arranged the tour, is sending out Guy Madison, Rory Calhoun, Rhonda Fleming and John Agar. Sounds like my personal appearance tour with Young Players a few years ago when we played the key cities.

• — • — •

Butch Jenkins' mother, Doris Dudley, who gave up her career to look after Butch, is returning to the screen.

Doris was on the RKO lot a few days ago visiting John Houseman. Mel Ferrer happened in, took a look at her, and said. "Doris, you're just the one I want to play a glamorous society girl in Claudette Colbert's picture, 'Blind Spot'."

• — • — •

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mitch Leisen had a narrow escape near Huntington Park in an automobile accident in which his car was completely demolished. He escaped with some minor chest injuries.

Mrs. MacDonald Carey is in Queen of Angels Hospital for an emergency operation. She and Mac hurried home from Yosemite. Too bad her illness interrupted their trip—the first time they've been able to get away together since their marriage.

Ruth Roman, plenty hot since "The Champion," and Cy Bartlett are as close as apple pie and cheese.

Joan Leslie's mother, Mrs. Agnes Brodell, is seriously ill in a local hospital.

Lotte Lehmann, the noted opera star, who has a very sweet face and sings so divinely, is being tested at MGM.

Operatic Soprano Blanche Thebom, who comes here to sing in the opera, is insuring her own hair for $25,000. Reason—at a party last week her tresses, down below her waist, were singed by a cigar smoker.

Today Grad Sears gave a party at "21" in New York for Harry and Frances Popkin to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. Mary Pickford, Buddy Rogers, Jack Dempsey, Celeste Holm and dozens of other celebs were in the party.

Richard Millen, brother of Norman Millen, won his first case in Los Angeles, the $50,000 suit he waged for the GIs. Same week his wife had a baby girl, and Norman couldn't be prouder of his brother.

It wasn't playing hard-to-get that kept Peggy Maley from discussing with reporters the coming marriage of her ex-heartthrob, the Marquess of Milford-Haven, and Mrs. Roxanna Simpson. Peggy's newest romance, a Florida biggie, doesn't like his ladies quoted in the newspapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fortunio Bonanova are adopting a baby boy as a playmate for their daughter.

Jimmy McHugh says he fell—of all places—in Shubert Alley, when he broke his ankle. He's hobbling about, but manages to pay Feliza Vanderbilt, who is in the hospital suffering with anemia, a visit now and then.

Patsy Lydon has flown to New York so she won't be too far away from Johnny Meyer.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Parsons School Bus Changes Are Announced

Service For Older Students To End

PARSONS, W. Va.—Beacuse of overloading, school bus transportation has been discontinued for all students from the Quality Hill section and Pennsylvania Avenue who attend Parsons High School.

This was announced yesterday in a letter signed by Reardon Cuppett, secretary of the Tucker County Board of Education.

Overloading of buses was cited as a major problem by Paul Boggs, Charleston, state supervisor of school bus transportation.

In a letter to E. F. Creegan, president of the Board of Education, Boggs said the situation, discovered in a local survey, should be remedied "as soon as possible."

Boggs said that short bus runs of less than two miles from school are usually looked upon as a "luxury instead of a necessity."

Under present conditions, the state supervisor said, it would be inadvisable to add any more bus runs for Class B pupils, those who live within two miles of school.

In cases where both Class A and Class B pupils ride the same bus, preference should be given to Class B children only when they are in the lowest grades, Boggs stated.

Under the new practice as announced yesterday, only those children attending Parsons Grade School will be given school bus transportation from Quality Hill and Pennsylvania sections.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Visible Henry Aldridge

Due to the strange nature of this job, I have become a reluctant expert on the teen-age-boy. Each job has its special cross. Mine is the teen-age boy. I can recognize a teen-age boy on the air before he opens his mouth—by the way he slams the door, by the note of exasperation in his mother's voice, by the squeal of his adolescent girl. I know all about teen-age boys—their voracious appetites, their nasal voices, their gawkiness with girls. I wish I didn't.

John Crosby

The most famous teen-age boy of our afflicted generation is Henry Aldrich of "The Aldrich Family" which is now back on the radio (NBC 8 p. m. EST Thursdays) and is also for the first time on television (NBC 7:30 p. m. EST Sundays). Ezra Stone, who has been playing Henry ever since the last time the Yankees played the Cubs in the World Series, which is how we keep track of the passage of time in our house, is now thirty-one and, naturally, unsuitable for the TV Henry.

The TV Henry is a boy named Robert Casey. He's a well-scrubbed, well-brushed lad whose mouth hangs appropriately half open, whose arms dangle almost to his knees and who wanders around in a permanently dazed condition. In other words, perfect for the part. Homer, who plays Huck Finn to Henry Aldrich's Tom Sawyer, is portrayed by Jack Kelk who is also the radio Homer. He looks, to my very great surprise, just as adolescent as he sounds, something I didn't believe possible.

Homer's father is also the same guy on radio and TV, man named House Jameson. Right here I'd like to disagree a little on the subject of television parents, of which there are now quite a few. The most convincing of them all are the Goldbergs, played respectively by Philip Loeb and Gertrude Berg. When Loeb walks in the front door he looks every inch a family man. He's had a terrible day at the office. Tomorrow will be worse. He doesn't know where he'll get the money to pay for the new stove. In short, a father.

House Jameson looks as if he'd just left an NBC dressing room and so does Lois Wilson, who plays Mrs. Aldrich. Both are too well made up, too neat altogether. Your true father is a little rumpled. There should be creases not only in his clothes but in his face. Otherwise, he clearly hasn't lived fatherhood to the full. Equally guilty of this stainless parenthood are the television parents of CBS's Wesley, another teen-ager. They are entirely too unfurrowed to have been the parents of two teen-age kids unless they kept them chained in the backyard for fourteen years.

Clifford Goldsmith, who wrote the play "What A Life" in which Henry Aldrich first saw kleig light, is writing the television series and, on the basis of the opening sample, appears to have lost his touch. It was a dismal little piece about a mixup of identities in a hospital, Henry, of course, being one of the identities. There wasn't a laugh in it unless I was in an unusually sourly mood and I don't think I was.

• — • — •

The transposition of these big radio hits into big television hits is not going to be as easy as it looks. For one thing, the listener accepts in radio an air of burlesque—the exaggerated mannerism, the phoney laugh, the trumped-up situation—that he will not, I believe, accept so readily in television. I don't, for example, think "The Great Gildersleeve" is going anywhere in television. On the other hand, Ozzie and Harriet, who are very real as well as very personable people, might do better in television than they did in radio.

The radio Henry Aldrich, with Ezra Stone (age thirty-one) still in there, hasn't changed much. Mr. Stone can still say "Well, gee whiz" with more conviction than any actor alive. Its humor, which may not agree with just everyone, is best typified by the following exchange between Henry and Homer.

"Homer, don't hesitate to call on me if you need a hand on your date tonight."

"A hand? On my date tonight? How do you mean that?"

Concert Group Starts Drive

KEYSER, W. Va. — The annual membership campaign was launched Monday night at a meeting of the Keyser Community Concert Association at the Presbyterian Church, North Main at East Piedmont Street. Leonard Withers, president, stated the purpose of the meeting, outlining plans for the membership drive.

Ram Metzger, representing the Community Concert Service, New York, told the audience much about this year's offerings for the concert season, and will remain in Keyser all week to aid in conducting the campaign.

The New York representative said that the Community Concert Service is holding for the Keyser Association, the Columbus Boys' Choir, for January 9, 1950, and Albert and Hefbert Teltschik, duo-pianists, March 18, 1950. The third concert of the series will be announced at conclusion of the campaign this week.

A 20-minute movie was shown, featuring different types of artists.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of the Presbyterian Choir.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Lower admission prices at the movies.

Yes, sir, Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas just introduced a bill in Congress to repeal the tax on admissions to motion picture theatres. This can have world-shaking repercussions. The first thing it will do is give 25,000 cashiers nervous breakdowns. Of course, I hear there's a counter-bill in the Senate. It's trying to get even by raising the price of popcorn.

But wtih prices down, people will be seeing more movies. In fact, Crosby may even let his kids see somebody else's picture.

Naturally, this won't change my brother's moviegoing habits. He'll still go to the movies as many times as the ticket taker at the door turns his back.

I heard that Mary Livingstone expects to save a lot of money if the bill goes through. Jack promised her that if the prices go down, he'll start taking her dutch treat again.

But, from my point of view, there's one thing wrong with lowering the admission prices at the theatre. I'll have to cut them at my house, too.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

J W U G L C K, L W F C R W T F R C U I J V M F
R W D I W R B S D — G I W B A M G G I Z.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: AS YET A CHILD, NOR YET A FOOL TO FAME, I LISPED IN NUMBERS, FOR THE NUMBERS CAME—POPE.

Celanese Workers Carry Own Lunches

A union spokesman said yesterday that most union men and women are "carrying their own lunches" rather than eat at the Celanese plant cafeteria which the company leased to a Chicago firm.

The "boycott" is a protest over the release of 10¢ cafeteria employes who were represented by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

The spokesman added that business at the cafeteria appeared to have fallen off to practically nothing with mostly members of the staff as patrons. The decrease is most noticeable on the 3 to 11 p. m. shifts, he added.

Meanwhile, there has been no further report on the union's attempt to get a meeting with the catering firm and the company.

Police Probe $27,500 Theft At LaVale Home

State Police reported last night their invesitgation of the theft of $27,500 from a safe at the home of Lee Green, LaVale, Tuesday night, has revealed no new clues.

First Sgt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale Barracks, said $17,500 in cash and $10,000 in Savings Bonds was stolen from a small wall safe in the basement of the Green home.

He added that the burglars used an unknown, but concentrated and effective explosive to blast open the safe door. The money was taken from a special compartment enclosed in the safe door, while the bonds were in a strong box.

Police were notified of the crime at 7 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Green. Sgt. O'Hara, Trooper First Class William F. Baker and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle went to the house and found that entrance was gained by forcing a rear window in a sun parlor on the side of the house.

The intruders knocked over a flower pot while gaining admittance, police said.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris said Green told police he and his wife were away from home for about three hours last night. He added they were visiting Albert Tomsko, whose supermarket safe was robbed of about $2,000 September 18.

The Greens said they discovered nothing amiss on their return home at about 11 p. m.

Green and several neighbors said they heard no explosion or other noise during the night. Nothing in the house was disturbed except the safe.

The blast ripped off half the safe door, police said, adding that the small strong box was constructed of steel and cement. Police declined to class the burglary as a "professional job," but Sgt. O'Hara said considerable skill is required in handling explosives so that a whole safe is not demolished.

Green, police declared, gave no reason for keeping the large sum of bonds, money and other documents at home. Officers theorized that the explosion probably occurred while the Greens were absent.

Sgt. O'Hara said last night the usual 13-state alarm had not been sent out because of insufficient clues.

Authorities recalled that Green was fined $500 April 29, 1947, in Circuit Court on a slot machine charge.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

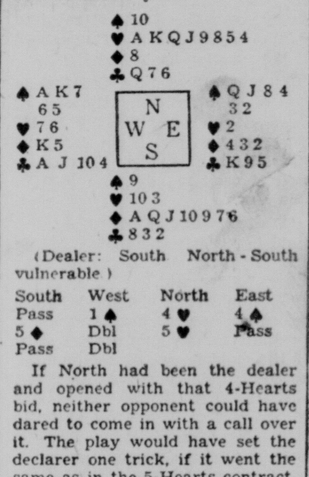
"The Authority on Authorities"

GIVES THEM AN OPTION

THERE is a big difference between a high original suit bid, to shut out the opponents, and a similar high call after one of them has bid a suit. In the first case, you have a good chance to keep them from ever finding out about some splendidly fitting suit they possess. In the second, that is impossible if the partner fits the first fellow's bid suit. The latter situation is quite likely, if you are short enough in their suit to have any reason for your high bid. The risk of your high overcall is that it gives them an option—to go on with their own suit or double you.



(Dealer: South North-South vulnerable)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
5 ♦	Dbl	5 ♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl

If North had been the dealer and opened with that 4-Hearts bid, neither opponent could have dared to come in with a call over it. The play would have set the declarer one trick, if it went the same as in the 5-Hearts contract. That result would have been profitable even if doubled and against not-vulnerable opponents, whose game would be worth roughly some 400 points plus.

But the effort was worse than futile after West had bid his spades. East could then afford to show his splendid fit. Maybe South should not have made that "indirect raise" of his by bidding 5-Diamonds when holding two trumps, but he was human and did it. The rest is easy to understand.

In the play, West took the spade Q lead with his K and shifted to the club J to produce three tricks in that suit and beat the contract two tricks. That cost 500 points, more than a not vulnerable game by East and West would have cost North.

A dealer bid of 4-Hearts by North would have shut out a real spade game, as a heart K lead, a diamond to the A and a diamond return for a ruff would have given the defense only three tricks, the rest being easy for West if he guessed clubs right.

Tomorrow's Problem

How should South play at 4-Hearts after the spade Q lead?

Test Of Smoke Device To Be Completed Soon

Railroad Suggests Slight Changes

A yard engine test of a smoke-eliminating device invented by a local railroader will be completed by the end of the month and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad may conduct further tests with a road engine. Meanwhile, some slight changes were suggested last night by a railroad official.

R. A. J. Morrison, B. and O. Cumberland Division superintendent, said a "few little bugs" remain to be ironed out if the "mechanical smoke consumer" invented by James De Martini, 214 Thomas Street.

A yard engine test, started September 30, is continuing and De Martini said his device is "doing a good job." He also predicted further tests and eventual acceptance by the railroad.

Extensive Tests Necessary

Railroad officials, however, were cautious Morrison said "extensive tests" are necessary to give conclusive proof of the device's merit.

Morrison suggested that, if the device is adopted for permanent installations, locomotive design might have to be changed slightly to provide a place for the smoke trap, which currently is welded to the boiler of the test engine.

A few other minor technical flaws which can be corrected, Morrison said, exist in the present unit.

Last night, De Martini said Howard Tenney, division fuel inspector, reported he had "tried every way to make her smoke," but couldn't.

If accepted by the B. and O. De Martini said, the device will probably be adopted rapidly by other railroads. "There are 42,000 locomotives in the country," he pointed out.

He also added the unit, a 57-pound steel alloy casting, will save railroads $500 a month on every locomotive. He explained that the unit causes complete combustion in the firebox by forcing cinders back into the fire.

Last A Year

Each unit, De Martini declared, should last at least a year. He added that some railroad officials have expressed belief the metal would "burn up" or melt under the terrific heat of the firebox.

But De Martini said the top firebox temperature is only 2,400 degrees Fahrenheit, while his alloy will withstand up to 3,000 degrees.

The device can also be used on stationary installations, he said.

De Martini, a B. and O. fireman, has filed an application for a patent with the U. S. Patent Office through his attorney, James Alfred Avirett.

Paw Paw High School Office Is Robbed Of $85

Use Glass Cutter To Enter Window

Over $85 in cash was stolen from the office of Paw Paw, W. Va., High School early yesterday in one of a series of robberies which plagued authorities of the Tri-State area yesterday.

The thieves overlooked some $392 which was lying in the office safe ready to be deposited in a bank.

C. R. Robey, town marshal, said the robbery, which was reported yesterday morning after school opened, apparently happened around Tuesday at midnight.

The town marshall said authorities are checking on the possibilities that two men, about 19 or 20 years old, may be implicated in the robbery.

Authorities said the thieves first entered the building through a laboratory window on the first floor of the building and then tried to force their way into the office.

After efforts to gain entrance to the office by removing the screws from the hinges of the door failed, the intruders went outside and entered the office window.

Officials said entrance was gained by cutting a circle about eight inches in diameter in the glass of the office window, apparently with a glass cutter, and then reaching in and unlocking the catch of the casement window facing the playground.

The money, representing chiefly funds of the Junior Class and other school organizations was taken from a desk drawer in the office.

The robbers, in their hasty search, did not attempt to get the larger sum which had been prepared for bank deposit by Charles Clowser, principal of the school.

The robbery is being investigated by Cpl. J. R. Wolfe and Trooper J. R. Burke, of the Berkeley Springs State Police detachment and Morgan County Sheriff Paul Munson.

Smoke Engineer Receives First Permit Request

Approval Of Kelly Installation Asked

First official request for a permit covering a complete high-pressure boiler installation has been received by the Department of Smoke Abatement.

George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, said yesterday that detailed plans and specifications have been filed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

The company, in a letter signed by A. F. Eggleston, treasurer, requested approval of designs for power house modernization at the plant.

Cumberland's smoke control ordinance requires approval by the engineer of plans for all construction or remodeling of fuel burning installations, and issuance of a permit for the work.

Included with the formal request are detailed blueprints and specifications for the new fuel-burning installation, which will include two steam generators with automatic combustion control.

The request described projected fly ash removal, stating that fly ash collectors manufactured by the Western Precipitation Corporation are to be used.

Hitchcock said he visited the plant several weeks ago to go over groundwork with Kelly engineers.

Each generator will be operated by two high-pressure boilers, thus changing from the old system of six low-pressure to four high-pressure boilers, Hitchcock explained.

Eckhart Youth Held In Pistol Theft

A 15-year-old Eckhart youth has been arrested in connection with the theft of a .22 calibre pistol from a Frostburg store several weeks ago, the State's Attorney's office reported yesterday.

The youth, after being questioned by authorities, was taken to the detention home pending a hearing in Juvenile Court on a larceny charge, according to the State's Attorney's office.

Trooper First Class William Baker and County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle took the boy into custody yesterday.

The pistol, stolen from Prichard's Store in Frostburg, was valued at $27.

Paye To Address Flood Control Group

Five U. S. Communities Exceed Goals In Community Chest Drive

With the third report meeting of the 1949 Community Chest campaign scheduled for 12:15 p.m. today at Central Y. M. C. A., Frederic W. Eiler, chest president, noted that five cities in the nation have already exceeded their goals.

Danville, Ill., Elgin, Ill., LaCrosse, Wis., Nashua Falls, N. H., and Souix Falls, South Dakota, have reported making between 102 and 119 per cent of their quotas for 1949, he said.

He pointed out that LaCrosse, a city of 42,707, roughly the size of Cumberland, raised $121,313 or 119 per cent of its goal. Elgin and Danville, Ill., both smaller than Cumberland each realized over $100,000 this year.

"We have reached the 65 per cent mark in our drive for $83,745, but we are not over the hump by any means," Eiler said.

"As a matter of civic pride, Cumberlanders must band together to see that this city does not fall short of the example set by communities no larger than ourselves," he added.

The Utilities Division has reached 96 per cent of its goal of $1,020 to lead all other divisions, Roy W. Eves, campaign chairman, announced.

The division, headed by E. L. Ewald, has collected $981.10, Eves said.

Honor award cards stating that the group has "met our goal" were mailed last night to 116 groups who had completed internal campaigns for the Chest, according to Eves.

Hammond Asks Court To Uphold Strip Mine Law

County Firms Term Act Unconstitutional

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP) — Those who ravage the land in a search for coal should be made to restore the damaged soil, Attorney General Hall Hammond said today.

He asked the Court of Appeals to uphold the Maryland Strip-Mining Law of 1947. The act requires strip-mine companies to fill in and level off open-pit mines so that trees and grass can grow over the scars in the face of the earth.

Two coal companies from Western Maryland asked the state's highest court to declare the act unconstitutional.

They said strip-mining does no more harm than rock, sand, gravel, shale and limestone quarries.

"All methods of mining and especially deep mining, leave gastly depressions in the surface of the land," they conceded.

Strip, or open-pit mining, is a method of scraping topsoil and rock off a coal seam with bulldozers and digging up the exposed coal with power shovels.

It involves "great gouges and upturning of the earth's surface," Hammond said.

Is Control Measure

"The act does not prevent strip mining," he added. "It merely requires those who ravage the earth's surface by strip mining to leave the land in reasonable shape so that vegetation, trees and wildlife will have a chance."

The Maryland Coal and Realty Company and the Tri-State Construction Company of Frostburg in Allegany County brought appeals from a county circuit court decision which upheld the law.

The act, patterned after one in Pennsylvania, affects bituminous coal and fire clay. It exempts Garrett County, Maryland's only other coal producing county.

Both firms contended the law was unconstitutional and "the worst kind of discrimination" in practice by thus affecting Allegany County along.

Yield Is Huge

Tri-State holds a six-year lease on the right to strip-mine all the coal on Maryland Coal and Realty Company's property.

Its strip operations have centered around Dan's Mountain and Vale Summit, near Clarysville, where the ground is underlaid with Big Vein Tyson coal and Red Stone coal.

The only vegetation in those parts is scrub bushes, haw bushes, jack-oaks and wild grass and the land is naturally unfit for farming, the companies argued.

Some of the ground had previously sunk in unbeautiful depressions as a result of deep-mining in the area, they said. Most strip mines are located near deep mines or are connected with abandoned deep mines.

More than 1,000,000 tons of coal were strip-mined in Allegany in a six-year period through 1948, Hammond said. Tri-State, since it began operations in 1946, has stripped 200,000 tons.

Traffic Club Sees Railroad Fair Movie

Movies of the Chicago Railroad Fair and of the pageant, "Wheels A' Rolling," were shown to members of the Tri-State Traffic Club at their monthly meeting last night at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

The movies, provided by the Sante Fe Railway, were followed by a movie of the Sante Fe's own operation named, "At Your Service."

W. R. Van Winkle, general agent, and W. F. Lewis, traveling freight agent of the Sante Fe, Pittsburgh, were in charge of the movie showing. They were assisted by W. J. Armbruster, this city.

Other arrangements for the meeting were under the direction of C. Eugene Howell, vice president, Clarence E. Gehr and John L. Carnochan.

Cemetery Care Plan Is Cited In Frostburg

Lot Owners Will Meet October 26

Maintenance and improvement of Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg, was discussed last night at a meeting of about 30 Frostburg citizens at the Elks Home there.

A plan for possible operation of seven undeveloped acres on a perpetual care basis, and maintenance of the older sections of the cemetery with improved care of lots, a better entrance and hard-surfaced roads were discussed.

A six-man committee was appointed to make arrangements for a public meeting of all lot owners on October 26.

It includes John Stewart, G. Kear Hosken, Dr. Walter Jeffries, J. Taylor Crump, Earl Brain and Rudolph Nickel. The latter presided at last night's meeting.

Speakers were H. H. Muma and Cyrus Bowers of Cumberland, managers of Hillcrest Burial Park here. They explained methods of operating a cemetery on a perpetual care basis.

Muma and Bowers accepted an invitation to attend the October 26 meeting.

The cemetery, in which former residents of almost every town in the Georges Creek region are buried, originally belonged to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Frostburg, which laid it off as a cemetery in 1864.

In 1879 the property was purchased by the late W. H. Evans, father of former Mayor Horace G. Evans, and Thomas G. McCulloh.

Following the death of Evans and McCulloh, the property was purchased by the Allegany Cemetery Company, headed by the late John B. Williams, a local marble yard owner.

During recent years the property has been owned by A. Charles Stewart and Mrs. W. E. Hitchins. Several months ago Stewart sold his interests to William D. Thomas, 21 Bowery Street, Frostburg, who has been caretaker at the cemetery for many years.

All records of the property, including maps of the lots and records of those sold and the location of unsold spaces, were reported destroyed by the fire several years ago that razed the building at the corner of West Main and Water Streets, in which W. E. G. Hitchins, a former manager of the cemetery, maintained his office.

Since that time, according to Stewart, the business of the cemetery has been conducted with many difficulties.

Halloween Festival Committee To Meet

Clair Mease, committee chairman, announced that several persons had contacted him regarding the roping off of Virginia Avenue from First Street to Laing Avenue.

The section will not be roped off, he emphasized, until after the 40 and 8 society's Mummers parade and the festival will in no way interfere with the marching.

Board Approves Proposed Zone Revision Plan

Other City Groups To Study Proposal

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night approved a map prepared by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer, outlining proposed changes in Cumberland's zoning districts.

A motion was approved to refer the plans to the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, and to recommend to the Mayor and Council that the changes be made.

Designed to permit future busines expansion in districts which are now restricted to residential use, the proposed changes would require revision of the present zoning ordinance, passed in 1944.

At last night's conference with Rizer, the board suggested an additional change not discussed at the previous meeting last month.

It would extend business zoning on Greene Street from Dingle Circle to the city limits, thus making the entire street a business zone.

Other streets to be affected would be Bedford, Frederick, Valley Road, Baltimore Avenue, Henderson Boulevard, North Mechanic, North Centre, Maryland Avenue, Park Street, Oldtown Road and Kelly Boulevard.

Williams Street would become a business zone from the B. and O. tracks to Maryland Avenue, and from the Louisiana Avenue intersection to the city limits.

In addition, a small section of Fayette Street at the Dingle Circle would be changed from business to residential to conform with the residential zoning of the remainder of Fayette.

Earl E. Manges, local attorney who serves as board stenographer, pointed out that deed restriction in any given area would not be affected by any change in zoning.

At its regular session preceding the conference, the board granted an appeal by John E. Twigg, 915 Louisiana Avenue, to use the rear of Lots 8 and 9, Michigan Avenue, as a garage, storage and shop space for manufacturing sheet metal products.

Although the location is in a residential area, the appeal was granted as an extension of Twigg's present business, now located on adjoining lots.

Pershing Street Parking Limited

Ten-minute parking on Pershing Street will go into effect Monday, Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn announced yesterday.

Flynn explained that many motorists have been parking their cars on either side of the street while they shop.

The ten-minute limit, Flynn said, will give drivers time to stop at the Postoffice for mail, but will not allow time for shoppers.

The practice of all-day parking "does not give the other fellow a chance to pick up his or her mail," Flynn said.

Cars found parked more than ten minutes, Flynn declared, will be impounded, and owners will be required to pay a $5 towing charge plus the regular $1 traffic ticket fee to reclaim their cars.

Halloween Mummers Parade Route Outlined, Marshal Aides Appointed

Final plans for the routing of the 40 and 8 Society's Mummer's Parade October 31 were announced at a meeting of the committee last night in the 40 and 8 Home, according to Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal.

The line of march will be down Fifth Street, Virginia Avenue, Maryland Avenue, Williams Street, Park Street, Baltimore Street, Centre Street, Market Street, Mechanic Street, Baltimore Street, Liberty Street and Harrison Street.

The units will disband at the Armory where awards will be made to the musical units by Fred J. Puderbaugh. Conlon explained that each musical group will receive a cash award according to the number of miles traveled to reach Cumberland.

He noted that six units will come from at least 75 miles away and 12 are from communities within a 30-mile radius.

Floats and vehicles will leave the line of march at South Mechanic Street.

Judges for organizations other than musical units will be L. Brooks Starcher, Russ Minter and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Deadline for parade reservations will be October 25, Conlon announced. After this date, participating organizations will be assigned to one of four sections for the purpose of assembling. Notice of the assignments will be published later.

The first section will assemble at Fifth Street facing Virginia Avenue. The second section will meet on Grand Avenue facing Fifth Street, the third section on Arch Street facing Fifth Street and the fourth, Laing Avenue facing Virginia Avenue.

Truck Contract Meeting Will Be Held Here Friday

Conciliator Plans For Joint Meeting

Federal Conciliator C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., reported yesterday that a meeting has been planned here Friday in an attempt to break the contract deadlock between Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), and eight Cumberland trucking companies.

He said the meeting, to be attended by officials of the company and the union, will be held at 2 p. m. in the office of Frederick A. Puderbaugh, attorney for the freight handling firms.

Commissioner Clevenger was in Cumberland yesterday to investigate the status of dispute.

The some 100 drivers for the firms have threatened to strike Sunday at 6 p. m. unless a satisfactory contract offer is made by the firms.

The union has dropped its demands for city drivers to nine cents an hour with comparable boosts for trip rates.

The freight handlers have offered a seven cent an hour increase for city drivers and boosts of from 54 to 90 cents on trip runs.

The old contract for the drivers expired August 31 but negotiations have proceeded amicably under an agreement to make any increased benefits retroactive to that date.

C. E. Stutzman, union business manager, said the union has not yet received an indication of the attitude of the firms toward a union counter proposal.

Stutzman said there have been no developments in the Winchester area.

Reserve To Form Women's Unit

Plans are being made to organize a women's Naval Reserve unit, Lt. Cmdr. Charles B. Gray, inspector-instructor of local Division 5-9, announced yesterday.

Applicants need not have previous Navy service, Cmdr. Gray said, and do not have to take any examination. They must be between 18 and 40 years of age.

Six women have indicated they would like to join the unit, but 10 are needed for activation, Chief Edwin V. Rinner, Navy recruiter, said.

Cmdr. Gray said the women's division would meet at the Naval Training Center on McKaig's Hill, but will not meet with the regular division.

Applicants may contact Cmdr. Gray at the Training Center or Chief Rinner in the Postoffice Building. A meeting date will be set upon receipt of the required number of applications.

Women in the Naval Reserve are eligible for home study courses and advance in rating. They also may take two week training cruises. However, they cannot be ordered to duty, drills or training during peacetime without their consent, Chief Rinner stated.

Women reservists also may earn longevity pay credits for time served on inactive duty in case they enter full-time service, the recruiter added.
